BIG BANK MADE ERROR . . .

$39 Million Mistake Turns Into Windfall

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

Washington (UPI) — The nation's second-largest bank lost almost $39 million through a bookkeeping error earlier this year, but quickly got the chance from the U.S. Treasury to turn the mistake into a windfall.

The error occurred when First National City Bank of New York paid twice in the same day for one government security worth $38.8 million.

Despite a federal banking system described by the Treasury as "truly the envy of governments around the world," it was the bank and not the government which discovered the error — 2½ months later. It immediately notified the Treasury by telegram and the money was returned.

But the bank also asked for, and got, an additional $38.8 million to use free of charge for 2½ months so it could make up for what it could have earned on private loans during the time the money was missing.

Furthermore, the lending rate subsequently increased, thus giving National City the chance to make more off the government's $38.8 million than it would have made with its own money.

The amount of the misplaced money and its potential yield in interest, are minute when compared to National City's total deposits of $19.6 billion, but the incident, confirmed by officials of the Treasury and the bank, illustrates the close relationship between the government and the country's commercial banking industry.

And it comes to light at a time when the federal government is under pressure from House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., and others, to put its vast commercial bank deposits to work in social areas, especially to assist the growth of banks owned by blacks and members of other ethnic minorities.

"This is a significant public resource which could be used more fully to meet public needs," says Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill.

Highly Improper, Patman Says

In a statement commenting on the transaction Patman said he thinks it is highly improper for the Treasury to use public funds to compensate the bank for its own internal bookkeeping mistake.

He said he is asking the General Accounting Office, Congress's fiscal watchdog, to investigate and would insist that the bank "return to the federal government any proceeds gained from the use of this money."

Exactly what the bank might earn from the money is difficult to determine since repayment to the Fed is not due until next week. At the prime rate of 6% it could earn a minimum of $582,000. But Treasury officials said the bank could earn twice that in quick turnover loans to smaller customers whom they would charge much more.

The Nixon administration has actively sought to increase government deposits in the country's 32 minority banks. But according to Edward Gannon, the Treasury official coordinating the year-old drive, government deposits in these banks had reached only $17 million by mid-September.

National City's error occurred March 3 when its London office and a New York branch paid $38.8 million for an Export-Import Banseries BB promissory note.

The error went undetected until May 19. Harry Conover, a First National City vice president, said the mistake was discovered by the bank's controller.

Conover notified the Treasury by telegram. The Treasury repaid the $38.8 million and agreed to let the bank have another $38.8 million free of charge from July 2 through Sept. 27.

Wouldn't Have Earned

Even if the Treasury has been aware it suddenly had an extra $38.8 million and — speaking purely hypothetically, didn't want to give it back — it most likely would have deposited it in another of the nation's largest banks without charge and without collecting any interest.

This is what the federal government does with millions, possibly billions, of dollars each year — puts the money free of charge in less than 10% of the country's commercial banks. The Treasury defends the practice on the ground that it compensates the banks for services rendered the government.

And it comes to light at a time when the federal government is under pressure from House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., and others, to put its vast commercial bank deposits to work in social areas, especially to assist the growth of banks owned by blacks and members of other ethnic minorities.

Windfall?

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, the committee's senior Republican, said the panel decided the bonus rate in the first year would give too much of a "windfall" to companies on machinery and equipment they have already ordered.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the committee chairman, had raised another objection to Nixon's two-tier plan — that it would have bunched orders in the first year and then led to a sharp drop.

Besides the question of the rate to be applied, the committee still was considering the effective date of the credit.

7% Was Old Rate

That was the rate of the investment tax credit before it was repealed in 1969.

The tax credit allowed companies to subtract 7% of the cost of machinery and equipment from their federal taxes due, as an incentive for making such outlays.

Huge Cost Overrun Again Charged On C5A

Washington (UPI) — Fresh allegations of huge cost overruns on the Air Force C5A plane were made Monday while the Senate prepared for a vote Tuesday on a move to cut off debate and force a decision on the long-stalled draft-examination bill.

Preparatory to demanding cuts in a pending $21-billion military procurement bill, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., asserted the cost of each of the immense cargo aircraft now has soared to $60 million in contrast to an original estimate of $28 million.

He said in a statement the over-all costs of the program have risen by $300 million in the past year but the Air Force has withheld this information from Congress.

As soon as it disposes of the draft bill, the Senate is scheduled to take up the measure to authorize funds for a wide variety of military hardware, including missiles, planes and ships.

The Senate is to vote Tuesday at noon on a move to apply its debate-closing cloture rule to halt a threatened filibuster against

Neer Claims He And Strode Only Participants In Fraud

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Dr. Bradley P. Neer testified Monday that former State Welfare Director Harold J. Strode and himself were the sole participants in the alleged $88,500 consulting firm scheme and agreed to split the money.

Neer was the government's first witness in the trial of Strode before a U.S. District Court jury of eight women and four men on 13 counts of mail fraud, interstate transportation of fraudulently obtained securities and conspiracy to defraud the state of $88,500 for unperformed consulting services.

The former U.S. Health, Education and Welfare official is serving a five-year term in the fraud case after pleading guilty earlier to six counts.

The Federal government accuses Strode and Neer of arranging a contract with a fictitious firm for consulting services and dividing the $88,500 in state payments made under the contract.

Neer said he first met Strode in 1968 when he came to Nebraska at the invitation of state officials regarding a computerized program for detection of fraud in medical welfare payments.

After efforts to obtain federal funding for a model computer program failed, Neer said Strode, then chief of finance for the State Welfare Department, suggested that "I become the consultant and the work could be paid for by state funds."

He said the first state payment for services was made while the agreement between Strode and himself was "still verbal, but it was later put into a written agreement signed by Strode and myself," using the name "K. M. Fulton."

"No services were ever performed," Neer testified.

"There was no intent to do so."

In other testimony, Neer said Strode participated in the opening up a Lincoln bank account for the consulting firm, known as Medical Management System, and affixed the signature of "K. M. Fulton" to the signature card.

In opening statements to the jury, Lynn Carey of Ashland, Strode's attorney, portrayed his client as a "little farm boy" who made a "meteoric rise" in the State Welfare Department because of the influence of Dr. Neer.

He said Strode dropped out of sight after being fired under Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann's administration for expense account irregularities because he "just flipped out."

Carey said Strode's state of mind was a result of personal problems he had with his wife,

Neer testified proceeds of 10 state warrants, of which nine were "deposited by mail" into the bank account, were later transferred to a Washington, D.C., account for distribution between himself and Strode by other checks.

Opening statements to the jury were made by the government's attorney, William Schaphorst, said Strode's flight was "evidence of guilt."

"There might have been good intentions (in the consulting firm scheme) at first," he said,

"but it ultimately became a scheme to defraud."

He said much of the evidence in the government's case is available because "Dr. Neer was a meticulous record keeper."

The trial is expected to last one week and some 24 witnesses for the government are expected to be called.

Seated on the jury were Mrs. Gretchen L. Martin of Lincoln, Leo Schuetz of Verdon, Mrs. Mildred V. Williams of Lincoln, Mrs. Lorraine Penner of Beatrice, Don W. Miller of Polk, Melvin Kempke of Kearney, Mrs. Margaret Allen of Lincoln, Mrs. Mildred Hladik of Lincoln, Mrs. Ruth Williamson of Lincoln, Gordon L. Committee Supports Flat Tax Credit Rate

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The House Ways and Means Committee decided Monday that the investment tax credit for subsidizing business capital spending should be at a flat rate instead of a variable rate.

This decision rejected President Nixon's proposal for a two-tier rate — 10% in the first year and 5% thereafter.

The level of the uniform rate was not decided at the committee's initial closed meeting on the President's tax program. There is substantial support in the committee for a 7% rate.

7% Was Old Rate

That was the rate of the investment tax credit before it was repealed in 1969.

The tax credit allowed companies to subtract 7% of the cost of machinery and equipment from their federal taxes dues, as an incentive for making such outlays.

Huge Cost Overrun Again Charged On C5A

Washington (UPI) — Fresh allegations of huge cost overruns on the Air Force C5A plane were made Monday while the Senate prepared for a vote Tuesday on a move to cut off debate and force a decision on the long-stalled draft-extension bill.

Preparatory to demanding cuts in a pending $21-billion military procurement bill, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., asserted the cost of each of the immense cargo aircraft now has soared to $60 million in contrast to an original estimate of $28 million.

He said in a statement the over-all costs of the program have risen by $300 million in the past year but the Air Force has withheld this information from Congress.

Nixon recommended reinstatement of the credit with a bonus rate of 10% in the first year, to provide an extra stimulus for early ordering of machinery and equipment. Then the rate would have dropped to a permanent rate of 5%.

'Windfall'

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, the committee's senior Republican, said the panel decided the bonus rate in the first year would give too much of a "windfall" to companies on machinery and equipment they have already ordered.

the bill to extend the draft for two years and give the Armed Forces a $2.4 billion pay raise.

Bill Survives Key Test

The compromise bill, already approved by the House, survived a key test in the Senate last Friday when a tabling motion by majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., was rejected by a 47-36 vote.

Mansfield told newsmen he thinks some reductions in the defense budget are in order and would increase the effectiveness of the armed forces. "We'd better get away from some of these exotic and obsolete weapons he said.

Proxmire said that "the costs of the C5A are continuing to rise out of sight despite assurances that the Pentagon is exercising closer scrutiny over this program."

He said that on June 30 of last year, total costs of the program were officially estimated at $4.6 billion but the most recent official estimate, dated March 31, 1971, shows the program now is expected to cost $4.9 billion.

When we compare the original official planning estimate for the C5A with the current estimate, taking into account the fact that the program has been reduced from 120 planes to 81 planes," he said, "we find an overrun of $2.2 billion."

In the Senate, meanwhile, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said the defeat of Mansfield's tabling motion showed a majority believes that the President's draft authority, which expired on June 30, must be renewed.

He said another implication of the vote is that a majority no longer believes that an amendment by Mansfield calling for a U.S. pullout from Vietnam in nine months, should be tied to the draft bill.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who has joined with Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., vowing to filibuster against passage of the draft bill, urged the Senate not to invoke its cloture rule.

He said no case has been made that the country needs the draft.

Lincolnites Released After Trip To Omaha

. . . IDENTIFICATION SWITCH FOOLED JAILER

By GERRY SWITZER

Star Staff Writer

Authorities are searching for a 29-year-old man who escaped from the County-City Jail Monday through false identification and then held a middle-aged Lincoln couple hostage for more than four hours.

According to Lincoln Police Inspector Robert Sawdon, the whereabouts of Harlan Harmon, described as having brown hair, being six feet tall, weighing 170 pounds, were unknown after he "forced" the Lincoln couple to drive him to Omaha where they let him out in the downtown area.

Warrants Issued

Warrants have been issued for Harmon's arrest and Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas filed a complaint specifically charging Harmon with kidnapping Chester E. Park and Gladys Park by threat to do injury.

Douglas said conviction of the crime carries a penalty of death or from three to 50 years imprisonment.

Mrs. Park, who was alone at their home at 4101 So. 27th with the man for about a half hour before her husband returned home Monday morning, described the experience as "frightening."

The Parks said that on arriving in Omaha, the young man, whom Mrs. Park described as being "very polite," told them that he was "just as anxious to get rid of you as you are to get rid of me."

Gave Him Breakfast

Mrs. Park said she gave the man a "nice breakfast" and then he "forced" them down the basement twice—first to look at some guns and then the second time to get a rope.

When asked if the man took any of the guns, she said, "No, they were just some antiques we had down there and they wouldn't have done him any good."

In connection with the rope, she said that the man "intended to tie us before he made us take the car."

Mrs. Park also indicated that due to the excitement she handed the man a butcher knife upon request and "he held the knife on me."

Forced His Way In

According to Sawdon, the man forced his way in the house about 8 a.m. "with a thing he had in his pocket which he said was a gun," but that he later told the couple was not a gun.

He said he told Mrs. Park that he was an escapee, his feet hurt, he was hungry and wanted a change of clothing.

The man was given a white shirt and some leather inserts in the front, according to Sawdon, and the intruder took $81 and a blue suitcase from them and "forced them to drive him to Omaha."

He said that the couple let him out in downtown Omaha about 12:30 p.m. and that he made threats to kill them if they reported the happenings to police before they got back to Lincoln.

According to Sawdon, the man "inadvertently or accidentally" left the knife he had gotten from Mrs. Park in the Park's car when he got out but he took a set of keys to their car.

He said Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) authorities were now involved in the case on the charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution based upon the kidnapping charge.

In connection with Harmon's escape from the jail where he was being held for trial in connection with an armed robbery at Schrier's Grocery in 1965, Sawdon said it was a case of "mistaken identity."

Went To Cell

He said the jailer went to a door of a cell and told a person of the name of Brancie Simic who was to be released Monday morning to come out of the cell.

"This guy (Harmon) walked out of the cell and the jailer, not personally knowing him, took him up to the desk and released him," Sawdon said.

Sawdon also stated that Harmon had some identification cards of Simic's which he may be using.

Nevada Escapee

Harmon is an escapee from a Nevada prison where he was serving a double life sentence for kidnapping and armed robbery.

His escape was not discovered until about 10:30 a.m. Monday when the county attorney's office sent a representative of the sheriff's office to bring Harmon up for a court appearance and found he was not in his cell.

Stiffer Penalty For Eagle Killer Backed

Washington (UPI) — The administration Monday endorsed legislation that would stiffen penalties for the illegal killing of eagles.

Interior Department spokesmen said the measure should go even further and provide for confiscation of equipment, such as helicopters, used in the illegal hunting.

"The events of recent weeks made it abundantly clear that stern measures are necessary to provide an adequate deterrent," said Nathaniel P. Reed, an assistant secretary of the interior. Reed testified before a House subcommittee on fisheries and wildlife conservation.

The panel is considering a bill that would increase the present fine of $500 and/or six months imprisonment for the killing of golden or bald eagles to a $5,000 fine and/or one year in prison for first offenders and $10,000 fine and/or two years in prison for second offenders.

Each killing would be a separate offense in the new proposal.

"We recommend enactment (of the proposed bill) if amended to broaden the coverage and increase the penalty to provide for seizure and confiscation of property used to perpetrate a violation," Reed said.

He said the confiscation provision should be included although "some people may wonder about the justification of seizing a helicopter that could cost $65,000 for killing an eagle."

Reed said tougher federal laws were needed because states have not prosecuted violations vigorously enough.

In the Senate, where hearings were held earlier, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., introduced a bill which would increase maximum penalties to the same level as the house bill.

In addition, McGee said, his bill would require revocation of any government lease or contract held by any person found guilty of killing eagles. This would, for example, result in loss of federal grazing lands held by a rancher convicted of killing eagles.

News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

United Nations, N.Y. — Authoritative diplomats revealed that Communist China informed a number of foreign governments that any softening in a resolution calling for the seating of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations and the simultaneous expulsion of Nationalist China would be rejected. Meanwhile, Sir Laurence McIntyre, the Australian Ambassador to the United Nations, announced that Australia would become the eighth nation to cosponsor the two resolutions by which the United States hopes to preserve Taiwan's seat in the U.N. General Assembly while at the same time giving Peking the veto-wielding seat in the Security Council.

Egyptians On 'Maximum Alert'

Cairo — The military editor of Egypt's official Middle East press agency reported that Egyptian armed forces have been on "maximum alert" since the recent shooting along the Suez Canal. Emphasis was put on defensive, not offensive, preparedness. Meanwhile, delegations representing the Jordanian government and the Palestinian guerrillas met in Jidda, Saudi Arabia, for the first time in a reconciliation effort in the wake of rising tensions between Egypt and Israel.

U.S., Soviet Mediation Seen

Karachia, Pakistan — If the leaders of

India and Pakistan cannot be brought together for peace negotiations, the United States and the Soviet Union would probably be asked to participate in peace-making efforts, said a Karachi newspaper, quoting authoritative sources. The U.S. and the Soviet Union are already assisting Iran in its mediation between India and Pakistan, the Karachi Star also said.

Flat Rate Tax Credit Eyed

Washington — The House Ways and Means Committee tentatively agreed to reinstate the special tax credit for business investment in new equipment but in a simpler form than originally proposed by having a single-rate credit. (More on Page 1.)

Gas Price Rollback Urged

Washington — President Nixon was urged by Sen. William Proxmire to withdraw a significant increase in gasoline prices established by the oil industry just before the administration's price freeze was imposed. (More on Page 10.)

Persistent Violence Troublesome

Washington — Although the summer passed without massive urban riots, group and political violence — from civil disorders to the ambushing of policemen — became so widespread and persistent that some authorities believed it was more troubling than the riots during the 1960s. Violence resulting from social unrest has remained at a high level in urban disorders.

Beatings Reported

Stormville, N.Y. — State Sen. John R. Dunne was informed by prisoners of beatings and killings when state troopers invaded Attica Correctional Facility last week. The inmates, who were transferred to the state's Green Haven Correctional Facility, told Dunne their version of being caught in the panic of the initial uprising and what happened in the yard at Attica before, during and after the assault by state police.

S. Viets Take Severe Losses

Saigon (P) — Communist-led forces inflicted heavy losses on the government side Monday in Cambodia and South Vietnam and extracted a severe toll for a government victory in Laos.

In fighting in the U Minh Forest on the southern end of South Vietnam, however, the allies could claim some success.

The Saigon command said Tuesday that U.S.-supported South Vietnamese troops killed 200 North Vietnamese there in the previous three days. That raised to 437 the number of enemy troops claimed killed since major fighting erupted in the leech-infested swamps of the U Minh a week ago. Spokesmen said U.S. helicopter gunships accounted for about half the enemy dead. The Saigon command listed government losses in two engagements Monday as one killed and seven wounded.

Some 55 miles northwest of Saigon, however, enemy sappers struck in force at a big South Vietnamese operations base at Tay Ninh and two nearby positions and the Saigon command acknowledged losses of 21 men killed and 64 wounded.

The command claimed 52 of the estimated 600 attacking commandos were killed and seven captured.

In Cambodia, other enemy sappers fired rockets into big fuel storage tanks on the outskirts of Phnom Penh and sent millions of gallons of gasoline and oil up in flames and smoke.

Officials there estimated that as much as 40% of Cambodia's

What About Nebraska?

Washington (P) — President Nixon met the 1972 Miss America Laura Lea Schaefer of Bexley, Ohio, Monday and talked a bit of football with the nation's beauty queen.

Posing for pictures with Miss Schaefer and the 1971 Miss America, Phyllis George of Denton, Tex., Nixon said the two beauties disagreed on the subject of who would be the nation's No. 1 college football team.

They were sticking to regional sentiments. Nixon said Miss Schaefer picked Ohio State and Miss Denton picked Texas. As for himself the President suggested "don't overlook Notre Dame."

After chatting with the young women, Nixon got them to face the crowd of cameramen in his office of picture-taking.

Two More Tax Indictments Filed

Washington (P) — A federal grand jury has returned two more tax indictments against former political associates of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Former State Docks director Houston H. Feaster has been charged with evading taxes on nearly $86,000 in income from bribes and kickbacks while a Wallace appointee, the Justice Department announced Monday.

The latest charges came as the wrapup to a 1½-year Justice Department investigation of alleged corruption in Alabama.

Feaster, 51, of Mobile, was named in an eight-count indictment that accused him of failing to pay taxes on $85,959 in the four years from 1968 through 1968.

'Bribes' Not Included

In each of those years he was also charged with falsifying his returns "in that he failed to include as taxable income bribes and kickbacks" paid to him while he was director of the Alabama State Docks at Mobile.

Feaster was appointed to the docks post in early 1963 when Wallace was first elected governor. Feaster was fired in July 1970 by then Gov. Albert Brewer after reports he had refused to testify before a State Grand Jury investigation docks operations.

The state government owns and operates the pier facilities at Mobile, one of the largest ports on the Gulf of Mexico.

The federal indictments were returned in Mobile Friday.

South Vietnamese armor began a sweep close to Highway I to the south of the South Vietnamese base of Neak Luong, causing heavy damage to ripening rice.

Cambodian government sources said.

They claimed in Phnom Penh that armored personnel carriers were beating down rice in the region between Neak Luong and the town of Kompong Trabek on the Phnom Penh-Sai Gon highway about 40 miles southeast of the Cambodian capital.

Brussels (P) — European Common Market nations ruled out Monday any immediate trade curbs or other reprisals against the protectionist measures President Nixon ordered last month.

Foreign minister of the six-nation community decided it was no time for harsh measures that could escalate into a trade war with the United States.

Instead, reliable delegation sources said, they reserved their right to retaliate later, most likely by domestic measures to aid their industries hardest hit by Nixon's package.

Ministers To Meet

In addition, the sources reported, a meeting of Common Market foreign, finance and agriculture ministers will convene in early November to work out a more detailed response.

Ralf Dahrendorf, Common Market expert on foreign trade, told newsmen that Monday's meeting "heralds the debut of Europe standing on its own two feet. Our problem now is that our position is still quite wobbly."

He said Nixon's Aug. 15 economic package showed the United States must now concentrate on its own economic problems and Europe can no longer rely on the same level of American help in stabilizing the world trade and monetary systems.

Nixon's package included a 10% surcharge on imports into the United States and an end to the link between the dollar and gold that had stabilized the international monetary system.

for 37 years. It set off a crisis expected to cost the Europeans some $2 billion a year in export sales to the United States.

Help At Home

But instead of striking back with more curbs on foreign trade, the Common Market nations looked toward moves to compensate at home those industries most hurt by Nixon's action.

Members of the Common Market are Belgium, France, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and West Germany.

Mrs. Banuelos To Be Treasurer

(c) Washington Star

Washington — President Nixon announced Monday he will nominate Mrs. Romana Banuelos as U.S. treasurer. If confirmed by the Senate, she will succeed Mrs. Dorothy Andrews Kabis, who died July 3.

A native of Miami, Ariz., who was raised and educated in Mexico, Mrs. Banuelos, 46, is chairman of the board of the Pan American National Bank of East Los Angeles, Calif.

She is also president and chief of operations of Ramona Mexican Food Products of Glendale, Calif., which she founded in 1949 with just $400.

Her husband, Alexander, serves as secretary-treasurer of the company, and they have two grown sons who also are officers of the firm.

As treasurer, Mrs. Banuelos would be responsible by law for the receipt, custody and disbursement of virtually all public money. Her signature would appear on all paper currency. She would be the sixth woman among the 34 persons to have held the position. The job pays $36,000 a year.

United Nations, N.Y. — Authoritative diplomats revealed that Communist China informed a number of foreign governments that any softening in a resolution calling for the seating of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations and the simultaneous expulsion of Nationalist China would be rejected. Meanwhile, Sir Laurence McIntyre, the Australian Ambassador to the United Nations, announced that Australia would become the eighth nation to cosponsor the two resolutions by which the United States hopes to preserve Taiwan's seat in the U.N. General Assembly while at the same time giving Peking the veto-wielding seat in the Security Council.

Egyptians On 'Maximum Alert'

Cairo — The military editor of Egypt's official Middle East press agency reported that Egyptian armed forces have been on "maximum alert" since the recent shooting along the Suez Canal. Emphasis was put on defensive, not offensive, preparedness. Meanwhile, delegations representing the Jordanian government and the Palestinian guerrillas met in Jidda, Saudi Arabia, for the first time in a reconciliation effort in the wake of rising tensions between Egypt and Israel.

U.S., Soviet Mediation Seen

Karachia, Pakistan — If the leaders of

India and Pakistan cannot be brought together for peace negotiations, the United States and the Soviet Union would probably be asked to participate in peace-making efforts, said a Karachi newspaper, quoting authoritative sources. The U.S. and the Soviet Union are already assisting Iran in its mediation between India and Pakistan, the Karachi Star also said.

Flat Rate Tax Credit Eyed

Washington — The House Ways and Means Committee tentatively agreed to reinstate the special tax credit for business investment in new equipment but in a simpler form than originally proposed by having a single-rate credit. (More on Page 1.)

Gas Price Rollback Urged

Washington — President Nixon was urged by Sen. William Proxmire to withdraw a significant increase in gasoline prices established by the oil industry just before the administration's price freeze was imposed. (More on Page 10.)

Persistent Violence Troublesome

Washington — Although the summer passed without massive urban riots, group and political violence — from civil disorders to the ambushing of policemen — became so widespread and persistent that some authorities believed it was more troubling than the riots during the 1960s. Violence resulting from social unrest has remained at a high level in urban disorders.

Beatings Reported

Stormville, N.Y. — State Sen. John R. Dunne was informed by prisoners of beatings and killings when state troopers invaded Attica Correctional Facility last week. The inmates, who were transferred to the state's Green Haven Correctional Facility, told Dunne their version of being caught in the panic of the initial uprising and what happened in the yard at Attica before, during and after the assault by state police.

S. Viets Take Severe Losses

Saigon (P) — Communist-led forces inflicted heavy losses on the government side Monday in Cambodia and South Vietnam and extracted a severe toll for a government victory in Laos.

In fighting in the U Minh Forest on the southern end of South Vietnam, however, the allies could claim some success.

The Saigon command said Tuesday that U.S.-supported South Vietnamese troops killed 200 North Vietnamese there in the previous three days. That raised to 437 the number of enemy troops claimed killed since major fighting erupted in the leech-infested swamps of

The U Minh a week ago.

Spokesmen said U.S. helicopter gunships accounted for about half the enemy dead. The Saigon command listed government losses in two engagements Monday as one killed and seven wounded.

Exon Takes First Steps Of Drought Designation

... Governor Confers With Ag Secretary Hardin

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon revealed Monday that he has taken the initial steps to have parts of Nebraska declared a drought disaster area and thereby make farmers eligible for federal loans.

The action was taken by Exon after Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin told him his request for a 90-day extension on call orders for 1967-68 feed grains had been denied.

The governor met with Hardin for an hour and a half last Friday while he was in Washington, D.C., with the executive committee of the National Governors' Conference.

Exon said the secretary gave him two reasons for the denial:

One, many farmers have already disposed of their 1967-68 corn and milo feed grains. It would be unfair to them to announce at this late date that these loans will be extended. Producers have the option of either repaying their loans and keeping the grain or else forfeiting their grain and delivering it to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

The second reason given by Hardin was that the grain "pipelines" are now relatively empty and it would help this fall's prices if the grain came in.

Exon criticized the Nixon Administration saying "their crop estimates are overly optimistic."

Corn production is expected to decline by five bushels per acre, and milo by 14 bushels per acre.

"For two out of the last three years, drought has hurt crop production. What is needed are more lending programs. Hardin did say that HFA financing terms are being liberalized so that the federal government insures 65% of the loan to farmers."

"However," Exon said, "we can loan the farmers into bankruptcy; prices must increase if more farmers are to be saved by leaving farming."

The governor pointed out that the only bright spot in balance of trade is agricultural products which are $2 billion on the plus side and "the farmer is financing this small favorable balance through low prices."

"If other segments of society were hurt as the farmers are, you'd have rebellion," Exon said.

Since July Exon has asked Secretary Hardin to extend the call-up date on feed grains twice. There was no reply to either request, according to the governor.

Exon said the possibilities for having areas declared disaster areas will depend on the October federal crop insurance forecast. At that time he said a survey would be made to see how extensive drought damage is.

Rev. Murphy, Presbyterian Leader, Dies

Omaha (UPI) — The Rev. Robert A. Murphy, pastor of Wheeler Memorial Presbyterian Church the last 19 years and a longtime Omaha youth worker, died of cancer at a hospital Monday. He was 57 and was a native of Northern Ireland.

A founder of the Omaha Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the Rev. Mr. Murphy in 1970 became moderator of the Nebraska Synod of the United Presbyterian Church, the synod's highest elected official.

Survivors include his wife and two sons and two daughters.

Services will be at Wheeler Memorial at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Ex-Sen. Robinson Switches Parties; Now A Democrat

Kearney (UPI) — Former State Sen. Leslie Robinson of Kearney said Monday he had changed his political party affiliation from Republican to Democrat.

Robinson said he had no political plans and did not explain the switch.

Robinson was defeated in the 36th Legislative District race by Gerald Stromer after serving in the unicameral legislature from 1967 to 1971.

A retired cattleman, Robinson recently was appointed as administrator of the newly created Nebraska Agricultural Products Industrial Development Committee.

Dr. Whitaker Gives View On Plastic Lenses

Hastings (UPI) — The president of the Nebraska Optometric Assn. warned consumers against getting overly excited about the new flexible plastic contact lenses recently introduced in Nebraska.

Dr. L. R. Whitaker of Gering said the new lenses have advantages and disadvantages that make them suitable only for persons with certain types of visual defects.

He also said several manufacturers have marketed various types of the lenses without receiving the mandatory approval of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Corn Makes Good Progress; 70% Of Crop Safe From Frost

By The Associated Press

The state's corn crop made good progress toward maturation last week and 70% of the crop is now safe from frost, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday.

Silage harvest continues in many fields and some corn for grain has been harvested in fields where the crop is mature and relatively dry, the weekly report said.

Some grain harvesting has begun with most of the grain cut so far needing artificial drying before putting in the bin, the bureau said.

The sorghum is reported maturing rapidly as a result of continuing dry weather with most of the crop having turned color and about 45% of it is ripe.

Kearney Lutheran Hour Rally Attracts Near 5,000 Persons

Kearney (UPI) — The International Lutheran Hour kicked off its 39th year on radio Sunday with a rally at Kearney State College's Cushing Coliseum.

An estimated 5,000 persons attended the rally. Featured speaker was the Rev. Dr. Oswald Hoffman of St. Louis, Mo., the regular speaker for the weekly Lutheran Hour programs since 1955.

The International Lutheran hour is sponsored by the Lutheran Laymen's League, the lay organization of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Sunday's rally was the second held at Kearney. The first was in 1963, but did not mark the opening of a new Lutheran Hour broadcast season.

Dr. Hoffman is the fourth regular speaker in the history of the program. One of the previous speakers was Dr. Lawrence Acker of Omaha, who now is pastor emeritus of First Lutheran Church in Omaha.

Firth Home Completely Local Project

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Firth — Lakeview Nursing Home is neither the largest nor swankiest nursing home around, nor is it necessarily on the highest hill.

But it does have its distinctions. It's located in a Lancaster County village of 328, was built without federal or state aid and offers one of the lowest room rates in the area.

And from its first spark as an idea to its last brick, the project was altogether local.

Opened only in June, the modern 38-bed structure is already two-thirds full and will soon have the typical waiting list. It serves a cluster of small communities which, as banker-investigator Gerald Te Kolste puts it, "got tired of going to Lincoln and Holland and further to visit our elderly friends."

"We called our first meeting in April of 1969 and that very night raised $50,000 in loan pledges toward the building," said the personable community and church leader. "Besides providing Christian care at the lowest possible dollar—as little as $9 per day—we have gained

Tour To Show Stock Growth Opportunities

Some 200 bankers and agribusiness leaders have been invited to participate in a two-day VIP tour of Nebraska designed to illustrate that there are opportunities for livestock growth in Nebraska.

The tour is the first major project by an 18 man committee appointed by University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner to help expand the state's livestock industry.

The kickoff breakfast will be held in Omaha Oct. 21 with a welcome by Mayor Eugene Leahy, an address by Gov. J. James Exon on the importance of agriculture to Nebraska, and an explanation of the tour by Dr. Paul Guyer, NU livestock specialist.

The tour includes a visit to the Omaha livestock yards, a tour of American Stores plant in Lincoln, the Grosserode feedlot at Milford and the Harrington feedlot at Grand Island along with explanations of the opportunities in the livestock industry and agriculture in general from NU President Varner, John Klosterman, president of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, and others.

Comments here today will produce varied reactions among readers, as no two people see everything in the same light. What we will discuss are some items relating to a common-sense approach. With common sense, you have few facts on which to make an absolute decision and that always leaves a lot of room for disagreement.

This last Saturday, law-enforcement officers had a problem stopping the gate-crashers and fence-climbers at Memorial Stadium. Hundreds, maybe thousands, of young people sneaked into the stadium to watch the Huskers do battle with Minnesota.

After trying to stop the youths, police finally gave up because the job was simply bigger than they could handle. One officer was highly critical, saying that kids who sneak in are guilty of thievery, the same as shoplifting or any other stealing."

Presumably, the officer believes that the youths are guilty of stealing, in effect, the price of admission. Technically, we suppose he is right but we wonder if too big an issue is not made of the sneaking-in process.

So far as we know, there have always been young people going over the stadium fence or crashing the gates when they could. Personally, we don't see much wrong with it nor do we see that it does much of any harm.

Young people have always sneaked into such events and we would imagine they will continue to do so unless the situation is made impossible for them. There is no doubt that sufficient personnel could be provided to stop all fence-climbing and gate-crashing. And arrest policies and police procedures could be made tough enough that the sneaking in could be stopped.

But we wonder why the university does not try a little different tactic. Why not try for a game or two letting the young people in for $1 admission? This would not give them a seat but they have no seats now, settling for the area underneath the north and south stands.

Possibly, so many youths would then show up that there could be no place for them and they would become a serious problem. But maybe about all the youths who want in are already sneaking in one way or another and the $1 admission would take care of all of them.

Even if the system isn't changed, we can't see the gatecrashers as criminals. We wonder if the indignant officer himself never, as a young man, crashed any gate or saw any entertainment without paying the price of admission?

Now subsided but recently in the news was controversy over the cutting of long hair on youths arrested by law-enforcement officers on minor offenses and given a few days in jail. A lot of people expressed the feeling that officers should not cut the hair but should only make sure that it is clean.

Many commented that cutting of hair was a denial of rights that were not permissible under the law. We have an argument with that but you might remember that a lot of the military still cuts hair, with many trainees getting their heads shaved on a weekly basis. Some branches of the military are worse in the area of personal discipline than any law-enforcement agency, which helps explain the fact that so many young people feel so unkindly toward the military.

Also subsided as an item of controversy is the firing of an engineer for insubordination by State Engineer Thomas Doyle. The employee had been publicly critical of Doyle, saying the State Roads Department head lacked the qualifications for his job.

Again, a lot of people said that the employee has the right to express himself and Doyle was coming on strong with a policy that denied employees their right of free speech. Doyle was charged with politics and of attempting to build a gestapo type of agency.

But how long would an employee in private business last if he publicly criticized his boss? And how long would such an employee last if he tended to build up among other employees, an animosity toward their boss?

We suspect that such an employee would get fired, just as did the engineer in the Roads Department. An employee doesn't have to like his boss but if he wants to criticize him, he had better be prepared to seek employment elsewhere.

Replacing A 'Giant'

Justice Hugo Black was appointed to the Supreme Court by Franklin Roosevelt in 1937. He served under five chief justices and it can fairly be said that he had more influence on America than many presidents.

Black retired from the court last week at the age of 85 because of ill health. Had he sat on the bench for another six months, he would have ranked first in length of service since the court was founded.

Justice Black is a southerner—a one-time member of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama who later renounced what the Klan stands for. The cry today is for another southerner to replace Black—but not the kind of southerner he is. Black believes in individual liberties. He was with the court majority as it desegregated southern schools and came out with one-man, one-vote decisions. He was with the court as it more sharply separated church and state, guaranteed impoverished defendants a free lawyer, protected suspects from coerced confessions, and expanded freedom of speech and press. He was labeled a "liberal" but he believed himself to be a strict constructionist, and not the kind of "strict constructionist" that the Agnewites call for. In his decisions, Black expressed a legal philosophy that told the people that he knew what the founders wanted America to be.

Black's retirement gives President Nixon the opportunity to pick his third Supreme Court justice. And with Justices John Harlan ailing, perhaps a fourth. The court's hard liberal core is down to three now—Douglas, Brennan and Marshall—and the President will be pressed to appoint a conservative and a southerner to the bench.

West Virginia's Sen. Robert Byrd has asked Nixon to continue his efforts to remake the court so as to correct the present imbalance which in recent years has reflected a top-heaviness of judicial activism. It should be hoped that Byrd and Nixon don't have Carswells and Haynsworths in mind.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana comes closer to what we think is needed when he says the "country today cries out for excellence." Whoever is named to succeed Black, Bayh said, "will have to be a true legal giant." President Roosevelt didn't know when he appointed him how great a "legal giant" Black would turn out to be, but now President Nixon has a standard of excellence to guide him.

Tax Plans Heard

Members of the Legislature's interim tax study committee heard a familiar tune at hearings across the state last week. Farmers and businessmen renewed their plea for property tax relief and one farm operator who testified even suggested the total elimination of all property taxes and the repeal of all sales tax exemptions.

And, predictably, Sen. Jules Burbach, who authored a couple of personal property tax bills which were ultimately vetoed by Gov. Exon last session, said that testimony before the committee is demonstrating that the governor's property tax proposals are not the solutions to Nebraska's problems.

Exon, who has said he will come up with a personal property tax plan for consideration of the next legislative session, has talked about a plan under which each personal property taxpayer eventually would receive a rebate of one-half of his personal property taxes up to a maximum rebate of $1,000.

That type of property tax reform, Burbach says, will encourage business expansion in Nebraska and what is needed to attract industry and create new jobs in the state is a much larger percentage exemption of all property taxes and agricultural personal property from the property tax rolls.

The three day outstate tour taken by the tax study committee last week reminded us that personal property exemption was one of the major battles during the last session of the Legislature and most certainly will be again when senators convene for the abbreviated session next January.

And as another reminder that in the search for an equitable tax system, the most equitable tax is the one that the other guy pays

A cook book for diabetics can be purchased either through your local diabetes association or through the American Diabetes Association, 13 East 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Price is one dollar. Sugar by any other name is still sugar so diabetics must not eat honey, which is virtually pure sugar. This notion that diabetics can eat honey is sheer self-deception.

Your husband is right when he says that too much coddling — no recess no gym, no showers — after a cold is over is nonsense.

The same sort of webbing can occur with the fingers and that's a different matter because you need individual movement with the fingers. In such cases the webbing may have to be cut but not until X-rays have determined the proper alignment of the bones in the fingers. This is to insure proper movement and also best appearance.

With increasing momentum, we gain a mile here and five miles there in less and less time. Every time we swallow a ranch, we gain a family for our town. The City Council rejoices over every sinner who repents and comes in to run a filling station, a hamburger stand, or teaches in our schools.

There is nothing wrong with our rural population, only what they do: their vocation. They sit on patches of ground ranging in size from 160 to several thousand acres. They don't make proper use of it. All they do is raise livestock, grain and other food products. Sure, there is nothing particularly wrong with that, but we prefer buying our stuff in the super-market. It comes wrapped and processed better.

One possibility is that you may have a faulty dental bite. That is, your teeth don't meet exactly the way they should. You might have the dentist check this at your next visit.

Unfortunately, I don't know what else you can do to break the habit, but it may subside as you grow older, or you may learn to be more relaxed about life in general.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a cure for dandruff? I have had it five years and used all of the medicated shampoos on the market. All they do is relieve Arthur J. Goldberg.

Civil libertarians had their grandest days as a result.

One of Black's lasting accomplishments, achieved by the Warren Court, was acceptance of his theory that the states are as obliged as the federal government to observe the Bill of Rights safeguards. Thus the right to remain silent under police interrogation has come to mean the same thing in a Terre Haute or Toledo police station as it does under questioning by FBI agents.

If the federal government cannot aid a religious institution, neither can a state legislature.

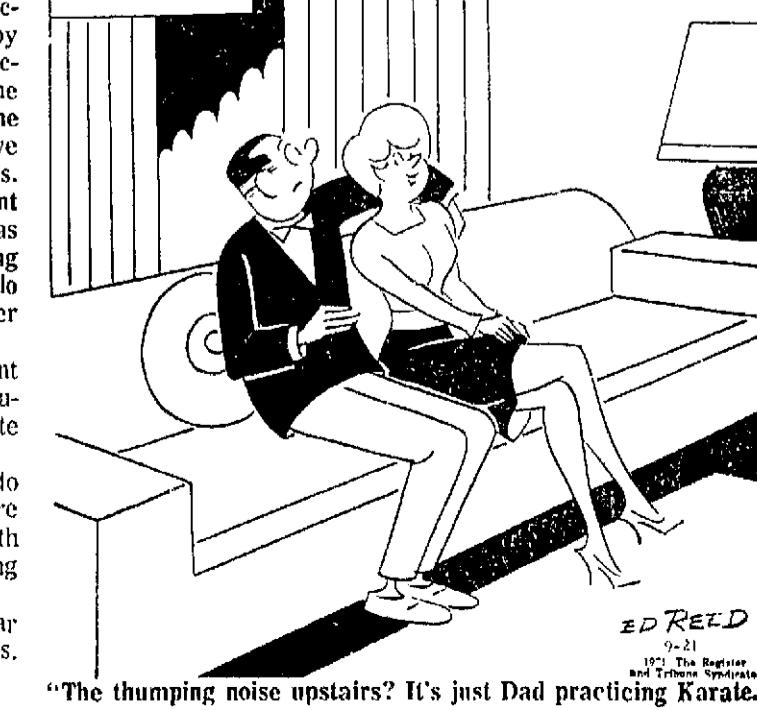

These rights, according to Black and Douglas, were "absorbed" by the 14th Amendment and made binding on the states.

No longer is this a peculiar theory of two stubborn justices. It is the law of the land.

BARRY SCHWEID

Justice Black Adhered Strictly To Bill Of Rights; He And Douglas Eventually Joined By Majority

WASHINGTON — Justice Hugo L. Black's major contribution to the law was the almost simplistic constitutional theory that the Bill of Rights means exactly what its words say.

He blanched at efforts to pin him either a liberal or conservative label. If any tag fits, it is "strict constructionist," the phrase the Nixon administration has recently given wide currency.

Liberals, among others, cheered when Black read the absolutist words of the First Amendment to prohibit censorship of the press and to bar libel laws. "No law," he would say, "means no law." But liberals shuddered, and prosecutors were delighted, when Black translated the flexible Fourth Amendment to permit modern eavesdrop techniques and other forms of "searches."

Moreover, if a newly stated "right" could not be found in the Constitution, this literalist justice would veto all efforts to imagine it there. Because there is no explicit "right of privacy," therefore, Black dissented from the decision that barred prosecution of married couples for using birth control devices.

Similarly, he opposed the ruling that erased state residency requirements for welfare benefits. The decision was based largely on the notion the Constitution contains a "right to travel." Black saw no such right in the document.

In his last years on the bench, some observers were certain his devotion to the Bill of Rights had flagged; that he was souring on protesters, for instance, that the vast social changes sweeping the country were passing him by.

Four years ago, in an interview on his 30th Supreme Court anniversary, Black rebuffed the suggestion. He declared he had not changed "a particle."

That seemed true on the historic day last June when the Court freed The New York Times and The Washington Post to print the Pentagon papers.

Of the six justices who voted for the newspaper and the three who dissented, Black was the only one to insist that under no circumstance could the government keep a newspaper from printing a particular item.

"Both the history and language of the First Amendment support the view," he wrote, "that the press must be left free to publish news, whatever the source, without censorship, injunctions or prior restraints."

"In the First Amendment, the Founding Fathers gave the free press the protection it must have to fulfill its essential role in our democracy. The press was to serve the governed, not the governors. The government's power to censor the press was abolished so that the press would remain forever free to censure the government."

While adhering to a literal interpretation of the Constitution, Black rejected the opposing theory that the Supreme Court must supply a "balancing test" when rights appeared to be in collision.

The theory was championed primarily by the late Justice Felix Frankfurter. Black's philosophic foe for more than two decades, and in more recent years, by Justice John M. Harlan, who himself is ailing.

To Black, balancing meant the justices would have to inject their conscious or subconscious biases. Besides, the approach seemed to leave considerable room for emotions of a particular period to sweep away absolute constitutional values.

Hence, Black and Justice William O. Douglas stood steadfast in the 1950s against what they saw as the excesses of "McCarthyism," joined sometimes by Frankfurter, but not because they were "shocked."

For many years, these two champions of the Bill of Rights found themselves on the lonely and losing end. But, when times grew calmer and anxiety about "communist subversion" subsided, the tide turned their way and to a new majority. Earl Warren gradually eased to their view, William J. Brennan Jr. came to the court and then Arthur J. Goldberg.

Civil libertarians had their greatest days as a result.

One of Black's lasting accomplishments, achieved by the Warren Court, was acceptance of his theory that the states are as obliged as the federal government to observe the Bill of Rights safeguards.

Thus the right to remain silent under police interrogation has come to mean the same thing in a Terre Haute or a Toledo police station as it does under questioning by FBI agents.

If the federal government cannot aid a religious institution, neither can a state legislature.

These rights, according to Black and Douglas, were "absorbed" by the 14th Amendment and made binding on the states.

No longer is this a peculiar theory of two stubborn justices. It is the law of the land.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Land Use

Colo. Springs, Colo.

There must have been at least a dozen farmers on our streets last Saturday. It's hard to count them, since most of them come in now dressed like the rest of us — and we consider them our equals. That is saying plenty, considering that we seem to be at war with them. We are driving them back on a wide front clear around town. With increasing momentum, we gain a mile here and five miles there in less and less time. Every time we swallow a ranch, we gain a family for our town. The City Council rejoices over every sinner who repents and comes in to run a filling station, a hamburger stand, or teaches in our schools.

There is nothing wrong with our rural population, only what they do: their vocation. They sit on patches of ground ranging in size from 160 to several thousand acres. They don't make proper use of it. All they do is raise livestock, grain and other food products. Sure, there is nothing particularly wrong with that, but we prefer buying our stuff in the super-market. It comes wrapped and processed better.

Things looked different in the 30's. We had farming and dairying right in town. For a while it looked as though the pigs and cows would crowd us out. But the voice of the hog-caller woke up the leading businessmen. They called a meeting and invited Senator Ed Johnson. We were in a desperate situation. The tears on Big Ed's shoulder bore fruit. We made a bid for Camp Carson. We got it. From then on, it was step by step: Peterson Field, the airport, the Air Academy, Ent Air Force

Five acres will make 20 building lots, they should have building sites for a couple of hundred years. In the meantime, will the land lie idle since cattle and farmers are gone? Or will the deer, antelope and buffalo take over again?

Everybody wants a piece of land. Some sell their house on a 70x100-foot lot—too much work to keep the house and lawn looking as good as their neighbors'. They move into an apartment which satisfies them for a while, but eventually they feel a bit cramped in and dream about the open spaces where they could escape and camp on weekends, stretch out and do as they please. So they buy a couple of acres 'way out on a hillside or on the prairie. But they soon find out that they can't do anything on their lot. The subdividers generally do not convey any parcel by a free and clear title. They write in so many restrictions that nothing can be done without permission from the former owners.

Most people, though, care little about what they can build or not build on their ranch. They are buying it for an investment and that is the main sales pitch: It's a steal to pick up a few acres at $1,500 an acre. And to think that this is the same land that was a drug on the market at a dollar an acre 40 years ago!

Private ownership of land and property is supposed to be the ideal, the only way for any free people using free enterprise as the cornerstone of their progress and their way of life. In Colorado the state and the federal government own some 60 per cent of the land—mountain and plain. The question is—will the government hang on if the price of land inflates any more. If they sell out, the whole state would be lost for grazing and agricultural uses. Colorado may not be in the top rank of states producing agricultural products, but we will have to import more cattle from somewhere. It would, of course, be worse if these things were happening around Lincoln, Nebraska, or Springfield, Illinois. And, pray, what will everybody want a piece of land. Some sell their house on a 70x100-foot lot—too much work to keep the house and lawn looking as good as their neighbors'. They move into an apartment which satisfies them for a while, but eventually they feel a bit cramped in and

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Daughter Engaged To Ugly Old Rich Man

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "We're in our late 50s — just average folks with no pretensions. Our son is happily married, but our daughter is still single and has fancy ideas about being rich. She's 33, pretty, has a good job, but has turned down several proposals waiting for a rich man to ask her. One finally did, so she brought him to see us the other night. He's 62 — four years older than my husband, bald, fat, ugly, and owns eight dress shops. He's crazy about Donna but it made us sick the way she fussed over him for she couldn't possibly love him in the real sense. The only good thing about him was that he said we'd never have to worry about him neglecting our daughter. Should we give them our blessing?"

Answer: — Why not? A devoted and rich old son-in-law may prove a better risk than a poor young one of dubious dependability — especially if he's what your daughter's been waiting for all these years. May-December romances always arouse speculations about sincerity, but they flourish in the best circles and often work out better than the casual entanglements of youngsters. In these marriages each is getting exactly what is wanted: one is getting security and the other is getting a sweet bird of youth. It may not constitute true love but it's a pretty effective cement.

Question: — Is it polite to go around guessing people's ages? My wife does this all the time. She'll meet someone and works the conversation around to age. Then she'll offer to guess their age. She looks them over and spouts out a figure, which usually seems to embarrass the person. She claims this is just a harmless little ice-breaker but I claim it's bad taste. What do you say?"

Answer: — It would be harmless if nobody gave a hoot how old he looks to others. But since most people suffer youth fever and get panicky when there's speculation about their true age, this little hobby probably tends to distress rather than delight. Until society gets more mature in its attitudes toward age, I think she should find herself another ice-breaker.

Question: — "I'm a widow, 71, and have lived alone for four years in a cheerful, low-rent apartment with my faithful pug terrier who is quiet and well-behaved. I've just had notice that starting next month no tenants will be permitted to keep animals. I'm absolutely sick as I can't go on without Toby and I'll never find another apartment like this. What can I do?"

Answer: — Make a special plea to the landlord and see if he may make an exception in your case. It's within the legal right of landlords to make such rulings but a man would have to be pretty stonehearted to make an elderly tenant choose between her dog and her apartment. Such rulings should be imposed on new tenants, rather than disrupt the lives of existing tenants. If worse comes to worse, you can always check with friends and find another home for Toby. It's wonderful to love pets, but we must be realistic and place our needs before theirs.

Warm autumn days now. We rented a scatter at Snug Harbor, a swingy apartment complex on the Bay.

"Tennis Courts. Pool. Cable TV. Children and Pets Welcome."

One reason pets are welcome, you pay an extra hundred dollars.

I said: "Ye gods! A hundred skins for one cat?"

Well, it seems the hundred covers any number of pets. For any length of time.

I said: "With a six months lease, that works out we're paying $16 a month rent for the cat. If my banker hears I'm tossing money like that for cat housing, I'll never get another loan."

I moved in a kitten—they should split the cat rent. Sounds more reasonable.

Bankers are straight arrow. Every six months—whether I owe money or not—The banker sends me a questionnaire.

Same questions: "Loans outstanding. Mortgage payments. Other savings accounts." A long list.

On the list there is always this question: "Mother's Maiden Name."

I can't figure it out. Does the banker think mother keeps changing her maiden name?

Does he think mother is a deadbeat? Skipping the electric light bills?

I had to ask. I fill it in. We don't tinker with The Banker. Let well enough alone.

When I moved to the suburbs it was country living. What I really had in mind was one of those books where the author has made it with Nature.

I knew an author who wrote such a book. He put his wife's name on it.

"When my husband first proposed that we move to the country, I was aghast. The prospect was frightening. How could I, a city housewife, cope with chickens and cows?"

Well, it turned out she could cope. As long as the typewriter ribbon held out.

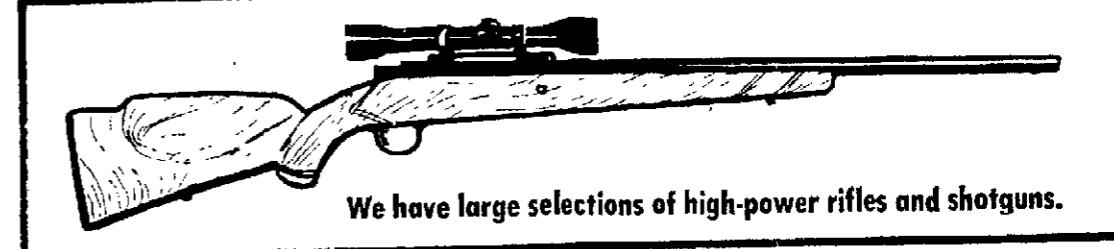

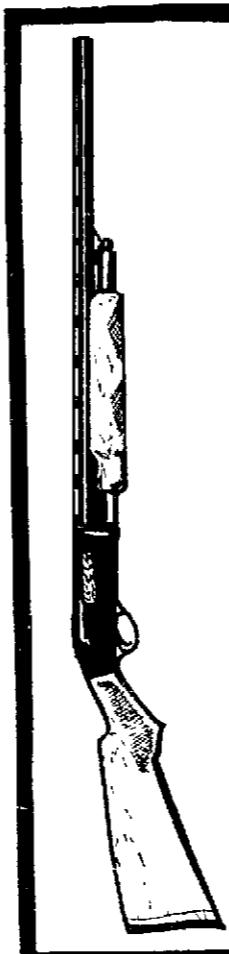

The book went on how they remodeled the old farmhouse. How she wept when she collected her first dozen eggs from the hens.

Everything was oak fires and maple syrup. A new outlook on life.

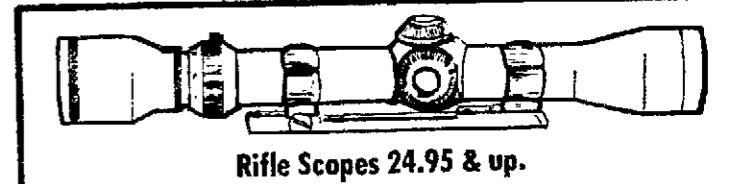

The man who wrote it said: "I actually did buy the farmhouse. Put in a bunch of chickens. Did you know chickens get the most blasted diseases known to man?"

You just breathe on a chicken and he comes down with pneumonia."

He had trouble with farm help. Weatherstripping gave way. Power failed at the height of the worst snow storm in history.

He said: "So we moved into a little cottage at Nyack where I could get into Manhattan in an hour and jump into the martinis at '21'."

He finished the book there. It was digested by Reader's Digest — which does more for digestion than Tums. They made a movie of it.

That was what I had in mind. But before I could gather an egg, our suburbs became popular with the under-30 people.

The rock groups live here. The villages are filled with food stores.

The book stores sell books on living off the land. Somebody else's land. How to rip off a supermarket. "Don't put all the eggs in one pocket."

Well, we must change with the times, dear hearts. I put a lime tree in a planter on the deck. We should have fresh limes for the Tom Collins. I bought some "Smile" buttons and head bands.

I got a bumper strip: "Free Everybody."

"Do you think it will sell to the movies?" I said. "Have you been drinking?" she answered.)

Consumer Education Workshop Slated

A special Consumer Education Workshop will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Lincoln's Arnold Elementary School under auspices of the Extension Division at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and the Lincoln Technical College.

Lynn Gunlicks, NUE coordinator of the program, said the workshop will be open to all interested persons. Additional sessions will be held on a weekly basis. There is no registration fee. Those interested in the workshop may attend the first session or register in advance by calling the Lincoln Technical College.

Tokyo — Japan has decided to permit the importation of an additional 10,000 metric tons of pork at once as an emergency step to check rising domestic prices. The pork will be imported from the United States, Taiwan and Australia.

Workshop sessions will include questions and answers, demonstrations, and tips on such things as:

— Household Budgeting — getting the most for your dollar, for food, clothing and other necessities.

— Nutrition — buying and preparing inexpensive, but healthy foods.

— Credit, installment buying, and record keeping.

— Home Sanitation and Health — personal and family health and dental care.

— Legal Information — leases, contracts, mortgages, wills, tenant and landlord responsibilities, housing codes, fraud and consumer protection, loans, and deeds.

Those who complete the workshop series will receive a certificate.

— Home Safety — how to avoid accidents and injuries, and what to do in emergencies.

— Home Maintenance and Repair — how to do minor maintenance and repair jobs in the home and yard.

— Legal Information — leases, contracts, mortgages, wills, tenant and landlord responsibilities, housing codes, fraud and consumer protection, loans, and deeds.

Those who complete the workshop series will receive a certificate.

State Supreme Court Hears Marijuana Law Arguments

The Nebraska Supreme Court heard oral arguments Monday in a controversial case questioning whether the state's new drug law makes possession of marijuana a crime.

Ray Simmons of Fremont, attorney for the defendants, claims that LB326, intended to be a model drug law, does not anywhere state that simple possession of marijuana is an offense.

The specific section of the law in question which overhauled existing drug laws reads, "any persons knowingly and unlawfully possessing marijuana . . . shall upon conviction . . ."

The defense contended that, since what unlawful possession is, is not defined possession is not a crime.

"No common law crime exist in this state," Simmons said. "In Nebraska no act is criminal unless the Legislature in express terms declares it to be so."

The three women defendants, two from Texas and one from Tennessee, Simmons argued, committed no crime "in the absence of a statute making the simple possession of marijuana an offense."

The lower court, Dodge County District Court, previously ruled in favor of the defendants last July. The appeal to the Supreme Court was made by Dodge County Attorney Gordon Gobel in the wake of the decision.

Gobel contended that legislative intent should be a controlling factor in the construction and interpretation of a criminal statute.

"The rule of strict construction does not require that penal statutes be unreasonably interpreted so as to render them ineffective or construed so as to defeat the obvious intention of the Legislature . . ."

The simple substitution of "or" for "and" in the statute, Gobel argued, so it would read "knowingly or unlawfully" would rectify the situation.

Simmons said that such is not the case and the law should be taken as it reads and not as it should read.

Saying that there are cases in which it is not necessary to define "unlawfully," Gobel submitted that "this case is not one in which the definition of 'unlawfully' in jury instruction was required."

The three defendants were arrested in Dodge County when police found them in a laundromat at midnight drying out freshly harvested marijuana in an electric dryer.

The Supreme Court could hand down a decision as soon as Friday.

Washington (AP) — The Interior Department denied Monday permission for two new oil production platforms off Santa Barbara, Calif., despite assurances from the department's own Geological Survey that a major oil spill would be "highly improbable."

Did Dag Die In Bungled Kidnap Plot?

London (AP) — Two men close to Dag Hammarskjold suggested Monday night a bungled kidnap bid by white mercenaries may have caused the death of the late United Nations secretary-general.

Hammarskjold and 15 companions died Sept. 17, 1961, when their airplane mysteriously crashed in the African bush. The Swedish statesman was heading for a peace parley with Moise Tshombe, then trying to lead the province of Katanga out of the Congolese union.

"I don't rule out anything," he replied. "Much speculation could have been avoided if, at the time of the inquiries, the whereabouts of certain very active people could have been defined in a very precise way."

Knut Hammarskjold was asked what sort of people he meant. "Adventurers for money," he replied. "Some of them might not be completely strange to that sort of operation" (meaning kidnaping).

The younger Hammarskjold, who is secretary-general of the International Air Transport Association, and Smith both suggested the aim of the would-be kidnapers may have been to prevent the United Nations and Tshombe from coming to terms.

Smith put it thus: "It was felt by the mercenaries that we were moving toward a reconciliation with Tshombe and that meant they were going to lose their bread and butter . . . If the United Nations and Tshombe got together and brought about unification of the crash itself, he said, was an accident, "but what kind of accident" remains open. He was asked if he ruled out foul Congo there was no reason for their presence any longer."

The U.N. official himself was the target of a kidnap bid by Katangan troops led by white mercenaries six weeks after Hammarskjold crashed.

As Smith described the theory, the would-be kidnapers may have got to know the radio frequency used by Hammarskjold's plane.

Then, equipped with the proper transmitting gear, they could have made contact with the pilot and, in the name of the regular aviation control authorities, talked or lured it down and away from its true destination. This was to have been Ndola, then managed by the Rhodesian federal government of Sir Roy Welensky. Ndola is now in Zambia.

Answering other questions, Smith said:

"Mercenaries are not academics or clerics . . . Enough evidence has come to my notice to make me believe further investigation may well show the reasons of the flying accident were not the ones that many people suppose, that it was not pilot fatigue . . . but that there was some other reason, prompted by some other actions by people like mercenaries — certainly not governments or authorities of any kind — that caused the flying accident."

The theory of a bungled kidnap attempt was mentioned by Hammarskjold's nephew, Knut, who now heads the Hammarskjold family, and by George Ivan Smith, director of the British U.N. office. Both were speaking in recorded interviews with the British Broadcasting Corp. program "24 hours" in a feature marking the 10th anniversary of the crash.

Foul Play?
Knut Hammarskjold left interviewer James Hogg in no doubt that he is well aware of the theory of a bungled kidnap bid by white mercenaries. The crash itself, he said, was an accident, "but what kind of accident" remains open. He was asked if he ruled out foul play.

"I don't rule out anything," he replied. "Much speculation could have been avoided if, at the time of the inquiries, the whereabouts of certain very active people could have been defined in a very precise way."

Trial For Inmate Accused Of Holding Hostages Begins

A Lancaster District Court jury of nine women and three men heard opening statements Monday in the trial of penitentiary inmate Charles E. McClelland, charged in connection with a Sept. 1, 1970, incident in which two guards were allegedly held hostage for some 20 hours.

Chief Deputy County Attorney William Blue told the jurors that the evidence would show that McClelland threatened to kill two guards at the penitentiary and gave them a list of demands and kept the guards "completely under the defendant's control" for more than 20 hours.

McClelland is specifically charged with detaining Vance B. Schrader and Erwin Siemans on Sept. 1 for the purpose of compelling an act.

Chief Deputy Public Defender Richard Goos, who is representing McClelland, told the jury that the defense was "not sure what evidence we'll have or use until we see what the state's evidence is."

He said that the defense will deny that McClelland assaulted anyone and that the evidence would show that McClelland was not the only inmate in the maximum security unit when the alleged incidents took place.

Some 13 inmates held the guards hostage at the institution for nearly 20 hours before releasing them when other penitentiary officers executed a surprise attack on the inmates holding the guards hostage, according to authorities at the time of the incident.

Former State Penal Complex Director Maurice Sigler, at that time identified McClelland as the ringleader of the rebelling convicts.

McClelland is presently serving three life terms for murder.

Murder charges will be filed Tuesday against a 28-year-old Lincoln woman in connection with the shotgun death of her husband Saturday.

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas said he would file either first or second degree charges against Mrs. Judy Sturm but declined to say which charge would be filed in connection with the death of Harvey L. Sturm who allegedly died of wounds from a 12-gauge shotgun Saturday morning.

Mrs Sturm was not charged or arraigned Monday, according to Douglas, since Public Defender T. Clement Gaughan who will represent her was out of town.

Court Asked To Void Parkview Annexation

By The Associated Press

Residents of the city of Parkview Monday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to void the city's 1969 annexation by the city of Grand Island.

According to the brief, "a cursory glance" at the law "will reveal that those statutes make no attempt to treat all first class cities or all cities of the second class and villages equally. On the contrary, the statutes are very restrictive in their application and apply, and were designed to apply, only to the very rare situation existing in the city of Parkview."

"The obvious fact, of course, is that these statutes were enacted in 1969 for the express purpose of enabling the city of Grand Island to annex the city of Parkview, and no other."

It helped reduce pollution in exhausts. Gave new cars with anti-pollution engines all the power and performance they were designed for. And helped their spark plugs and exhaust system last up to twice as long. Amoco became the best-selling gasoline of its kind.

Rub-a-dub, The Zoo Train Is Scrubbed

A belated spring cleaning was the intent of Towne Club sorority and Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity on Saturday morning as they set out with buckets of water and soap for the Children's Zoo. The project — washing and waxing the Zoo Train.

What originated as a service project for the members of Towne Club rapidly became a function as the fraternity men joined in — and it all began early in the morning, 8 o'clock to be exact, and the girls and guys scrubbed away to restore the lustre to the little red train that thrills thousands of youngsters each summer. Now it is in mothballs, just waiting for next summer.

ALL-AMERICAN ROSE SELECTIONS FOR 1972 NAMED

There wasn't a pageant—No one sang "There she goes, Miss America." There was no runway for the beauties—There were no swim suits or evening gowns to be admired — but there were Judges.

There was no need for a great production—the winners were beautiful even without fan fare.

The All-America rose selections have been made for 1972. Some of them are the offspring of some of your old rose-garden friends, and you'll be happy to meet them—Here they are:

APOLLO — described by its introducers as "An All-America award winner for 1972 and a radiant new contribution to the SOLAR SYSTEM."

APOLLO is a hybrid tea rose of soft, sunrise yellow, delicately infused at the base with shadowy infiltrations of crimson, like the dawn of a moist morn. Farther out in the petals, the yellow strengthens and deepens, but always retains its soft tones throughout all stages of the bloom.

Buds are slender, long, pointed, and stand individually on long stems, which are quite free from thorns—a magnificently rose for cutting and show purposes. The open flowers are large, often attaining a diameter of five to six inches, and have the charming fragrance of an old fashioned tea rose. They average 30 to 35 petals.

APOLLO is the result of a cross between High Time and Imperial Gold by Dr. David L. Armstrong.

PORTRAIT — a rose with a special message for all of the amateur rose hybridizers throughout the country—PORTRAIT was hybridized by Carl Meyer, an amateur rose breeder from near Cincinnati, Ohio. It is the first rose produced by an amateur ever to win an AARS award.

PORTRAIT is a warm, radiant pink hybrid tea with urn-shaped, deep pink buds, opening to a soft, almost creamy white bloom, edged with a delightful blush pink. The large, fully double flower is a warm blending of rose shades into tones of creamy radiance with a soft, even pink on the reverse sides of the petals.

Round shoulders can spoil an otherwise lovely figure. Today's exercise will help prevent and correct this condition. Lie on the floor on your abdomen, head on the floor and arms resting on the floor at your sides. Raise your head and shoulders up from the floor as far as you can, head up. Hold for a count of six. Return to starting position. Repeat six times at first and gradually increase to 15.

The season for taking an inventory of summer damage is at hand. For this reason I am bringing you a checklist today to remind you.

CHECKLIST FOR THE END OF SUMMER

1. Have you gained some weight during the past few lazier months when you ate delicious cold foods you thought of as low calorie but which fooled you? Green salads—but what about the dressing? Lovely cold asparagus, but with hollandaise sauce? Those harmless looking gelatin salads, but what about the mayonnaise or sour or whipped cream in them? If you have gained a few pounds now is the time to lose them before fall shopping.

2. Consider your hair. Is it bleached or dried by exposure to the outdoors? Right now, before your fall permanent, is the time to give it the benefit of the many excellent conditioners on the market. Your permanent will be much more successful if you do this. Also indulge in regular scalp massage to help get your topknot in the best condition possible.

3. What about your skin? Is it showing the effects of too much "summer sun"? If so get busy with a good lubricating oil or cream. Let it soak in for at least a half-hour each day and apply a moisturizer before going to sleep at night. Unless your complexion is very oily cut down on the use of soap and use a cleansing cream or foam more frequently.

4. Cuticle. You are almost certain to discover that the cuticles around your toenails, and even your fingernails, is drier than usual. Massage a cuticle cream or oil into this skin before going to bed each

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I was in the hospital for several weeks and became very friendly with Gloria, a patient who shared my room. Gloria was a divorcee, my age. We exchanged a lot of confidences and I told her about a fling I had with an old beau to get even with my husband who had a thing going with my best friend.

When my husband would come to visit me, he'd kid around with Gloria, and after he'd leave she'd tell me how cool she thought he was.

Well Gloria got out of the hospital before I did, and wouldn't you know, she managed to get together with my husband. I didn't find out about this until after I caught them in my house in my bed, and the kids were even home at the time.

My husband says it was all my fault because I threw Gloria at him. Don't you think they were equally guilty? I am madder at her than I am at him. Have you any advice for me?

CHEATED ON

DEAR CHEATED: Yes. Don't ever tell your husband another woman thinks he's cool. It drives up his thermostat.

DEAR ABBY: We have some neighbors who borrow eggs, half a dozen at a time, and bread by the loaves. We never get anything back. Last week we got an invitation to an outdoor party given by these neighbors. We accepted and had very good time. They had good eats and plenty of drinks.

Here's the clincher: Yesterday we got a bill in the mail for $8.60 with a note, "This is our share of the food and drink."

Do you think we should pay this bill? If so, should we mail it? Or should we deliver it in person with a few choice words? When we were invited they didn't say anything about paying.

SHOCKED IN ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR SHOCKED: I would ignore the bill. And the neighbors.

Place the remaining dough between two layers of waxed paper. Roll out to a circle to match the 10-inch one on the cookie sheet. Brown ground beef. (Drain off fat, if necessary.) Season to taste with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with seasoning mix. Blend in tomato sauce. Spread to within 1/2 inch of edge. Sprinkle with cheese. Top with other circle.

Brush with milk; sprinkle with a mixture of 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1/2 cup dry mashed potato flakes. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes until crust is golden brown.

Have A Sandwich

A hot peanut butter and jelly sandwich? Incredible! It isn't unbelievable, really—it's just good sense.

GRIFFIN PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY SANDWICH

8 slices white bread

Peanut butter

Pure grape jelly or strawberry preserves

Butter or margarine

2 eggs, beaten

1/2 cup milk

For each sandwich, spread one slice of bread with peanut butter; top with second slice of bread spread with jelly.

Spread outside of sandwich with butter or margarine. Dip in combined egg and milk mixture. Grill on both sides until lightly browned.

In notrump contracts it is customary for the defenders to attack declarer in a suit where they think he is weak. Contacts frequently stand or fall on this principle of exploiting declarer's weaknesses, and here is a hand to illustrate the point.

West could see no virtue in leading his own longest suit, spades, which would have required East to have exceptional strength or length in that suit, so he chose the queen of diamonds as his opening salvo in the hope of hitting partner's long suit.

Declarer did as well as he could when he played the deuce on the ten. West following low, and then won the heart continuation with the ace. South now crossed to dummy with a spade, led the ten of clubs and finesse-d, but West won with the king and cashed the king of hearts to put the contract down three.

Rub-a-dub, The Zoo Train Is Scrubbed

A belated spring cleaning was the intent of Towne Club sorority and Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity on Saturday morning as they set out with buckets of water and soap for the Children's Zoo. The project — washing and waxing the Zoo Train.

What originated as a service project for the members of Towne Club rapidly became a function as the fraternity men joined in — and it all began early in the morning, 8 o'clock to be exact, and the girls and guys scrubbed away to restore the lustre to the little red train that thrills thousands of youngsters each summer. Now it is in mothballs, just waiting for next summer.

In the foreground we find Miss Janice Bergmann holding a bucket of sudsy water into which Richard Katt of Herman is about to dip his sponge.

Do you think we should pay this bill? If so, should we mail it? Or should we deliver it in person with a few choice words? When we were invited they didn't say anything about paying.

DEAR CHEATED: Yes. Don't ever tell your husband another woman thinks he's cool. It drives up his thermostat.

DEAR ABBY: We have some neighbors who borrow eggs, half a dozen at a time, and bread by the loaves. We never get anything back. Last week we got an invitation to an outdoor party given by these neighbors. We accepted and had a very good time. They had good eats and plenty of drinks.

Here's the clincher: Yesterday we got a bill in the mail for $8.60 with a note, "This is for your share of the food and drinks."

Do you think we should pay this bill? If so, should we mail it? Or should we deliver it in person with a few choice words? When we were invited they didn't say anything about paying.

SHOCKED IN ALBUQUERQUE:

DEAR SHOCKED: I would ignore the bill. And the neighbors.

All-American Rose Selections For 1972 Named

There wasn't a pageant—No one sang "There she goes, Miss America." There was no runway for the beauties—There were no swim suits or evening gowns to be admired—but there were judges.

There was no need for a great production—the winners were beautiful even without fan fare.

The All-American rose selections have been made for 1972. Some of them are the offspring of some of your old rose-garden friends, and you'll be happy to meet them—Here they are:

APOLLO — described by its introducer as "An All-America award winner for 1972 and a radiant new contribution to the SOLAR SYSTEM."

APOLLO is a hybrid tea rose of soft, sunrise yellow, delicately infused at the base with shadowy infiltrations of crimson, like the dawn of a moist morn. Farther out in the petals, the yellow strengthens and deepens, but always retains its soft tones throughout all stages of the bloom.

Buds are slender, long, pointed, and stand individually on long stems, which are quite free from thorns—a magnificent rose for cutting and show purposes. The open flowers are large, often attaining a diameter of five to six inches, and have the charming fragrance of an old fashioned tea rose. They average 30 to 35 petals.

APOLLO is the result of a cross between High Time and Imperial Gold by Dr. David L. Armstrong.

PORTRAIT — a rose with a special message for all of the amateur rose hybridizers throughout the country—PORTRAIT was hybridized by Carl Meyer, an amateur rose breeder from near Cincinnati, Ohio. It is the first rose produced by an amateur ever to win an AARS award.

PORTRAIT is a warm, radiant pink hybrid tea with urn-shaped, deep pink buds, opening to a soft, almost creamy white bloom, edged with a delightful blush pink. The large, fully double flower is a warm blending of rose shades into tones of creamy radiance with a soft, even pink on the reverse sides of the petals.

This new rose is made up of over 50 satiny petals of great substance which roll back in a pleasing, informal style, and has a delicate old-fashioned fragrance which adds a rewarding "sniff me" invitation to an attractive flower.

PORTRAIT is the descendant of three All-America winners—

Charlotte Armstrong, Peace and Pink Parfait. Also among her ancestors are Crimson Glory, Show Girl and Pink Peace.

Round shoulders can spoil an otherwise lovely figure. Today's exercise will help prevent and correct this condition. Lie on the floor on your abdomen, head on the floor and arms resting on the floor at your sides. Raise your head and shoulders up from the floor as far as you can, head up. Hold for a count of six. Return to starting position. Repeat six times at first and gradually increase to 15.

The season for taking an inventory of summer damage is at hand. For this reason I am bringing you a checklist today to remind you.

CHECKLIST FOR THE END OF SUMMER

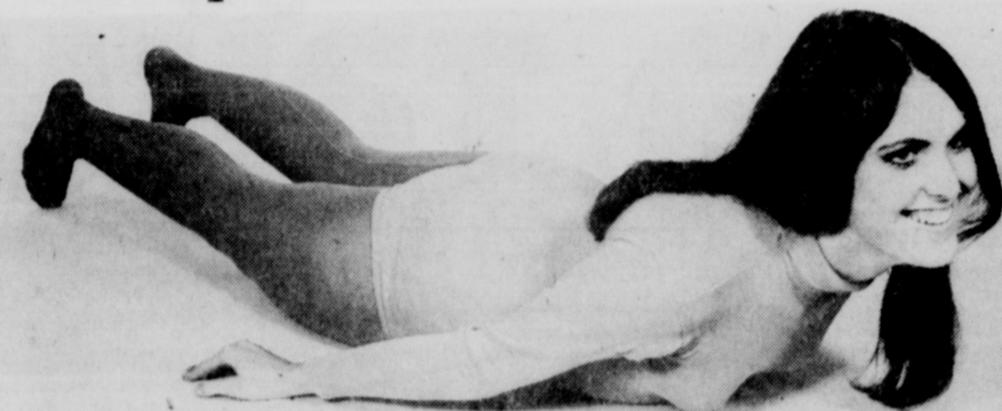

1. Have you gained some weight during the past few lazier months when you ate delicious cold foods you thought of as low calorie but which fooled you? Green salads—but what about the dressing? Lovely cold asparagus, but with hollandaise sauce? Those harmless looking gelatin salads, but what about the mayonnaise or sour or whipped cream in them? If you have gained a few pounds now is the time to lose them before fall shopping.

2. Consider your hair. Is it bleached or dried by exposure to the outdoors? Right now, before your fall permanent, is the time to give it the benefit of the many excellent conditioners on the market. Your permanent will be much more successful if you do this. Also indulge in regular scalp massage to help get your topnotch in the best condition possible.

3. What about your skin? Is it showing the effects of too much summer sun? If so get busy with a good lubricating oil or cream. Let it soak in for at least a half-hour each day and apply a moisturizer before going to sleep at night. Unless your complexion is very oily cut down on the use of soap and use a cleansing cream or foam more frequently.

4. Cuticle. You are almost certain to discover that the cuticle around your toenails, and even your fingernails, is drier than usual. Massage a cuticle cream or oil into this skin before going to bed each

Keep Shoulders Straight

You would be wise to begin letting your suntan fade. It takes a while and a fairer complexion may match winter clothes more becomingly than the suntan which was so chic with summer pastels.

FOOD

for football days and nights

Ground beef is the center attraction for these ideas designed for luncheon pre-game or post-game supper, when there is a casual get-together of friends. Economical and easy to make, Big Burger for a Bunch is a unique way to serve the "meat and potatoes" course all in one. A ground beef filling, sparked with sloppy joe seasoning mix, is sandwiched between layers of a biscuit-like pastry made from flour and potato flakes. Mozzarella cheese adds another flavor bonus as it is shredded atop the meat layer before baking.

Cut this giant "hamburger" in wedges to serve, then add crisp relishes, a dessert and a beverage to complete this money-minded menu.

BIG BURGER FOR A BUNCH
2 cups All Purpose Flour
2 cups mashed potato flakes
3/4 cup butter or margarine
3/4 cup milk
1 lb. ground beef
Salt and pepper, if desired
1 package (1 oz.) Sloppy Joes Seasoning Mix
1 cup (8-oz. can) tomato sauce

1 cup (4-oz. pkg.) shredded Mozzarella cheese, if desired.
Milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup mashed potato flakes
Over 425 degrees
4 to 6 servings.
(No need to sift flour; measure by lightly spooning into cup and leveling off.) In large mixing bowl, combine flour and potato flakes; cut in butter. With a fork, stir in milk. Dough may be stiff. Pat half of an ungreased cookie sheet. the dough into a 10-inch circle

Place the remaining dough between two layers of waxed paper. Roll out to a circle to match the 10-inch one on the cookie sheet. Brown ground beef. (Drain off fat, if necessary.) Season to taste with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with seasoning mix. Blend in tomato sauce. Spread to within 1/2 inch of edge. Sprinkle with cheese. Top with other circle. Brush with milk; sprinkle with a mixture of 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1/2 cup dry mashed potato flakes. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes until crust is golden brown.

Have A Sandwich

GRILLED PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY SANDWICH
8 slices white bread
Peanut butter
Pure grape jelly or strawberry preserves
Butter or margarine

2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup milk

For each sandwich, spread one slice of bread with peanut butter; top with second slice of bread spread with jelly. Spread outside of sandwich with butter or margarine. Dip in combined egg and milk mixture. Grill on both sides until lightly browned.

Autumn Activities Keeps Suburban Areas Busy

A bit of prophecy gleaned from the lines of Mother Goose predicts that, "Friday night's dream, on Saturday told, is sure to come true, be it ever so old." If this maxim is a valid one—and who is to question such a reliable authority?—Lincoln's suburban residents must have spent Friday evening dreaming of traveling, entertaining, celebrating and, of course, an NU football victory, since all of these things transpired during the weekend just past.

However, not everyone's thoughts were turned towards such activities last weekend—at least not entirely. One suburban family whose attention was diverted—and for a very good reason, we might add—was that of Meadow Lane residents Mr. and Mrs.

No Peeking Allowed

Actually there isn't any sign on the door that says "No Peeking Allowed," but there is a certain room at St. Elizabeth Community Health Center that is off-limits to all but the members of the St. Elizabeth Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary, you see, is using the room to store all of those delightful items that the public will be able to see—and buy at the Auxiliary's annual "Holly Festival" which will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 19, in the auditorium at the hospital. The doors open at 9 o'clock in the morning, and remain open until 9 o'clock in the evening.

That storage room at St. Elizabeth Health Center is rapidly filling with the articles that will be on display—and which will be for sale.

We're giving you only a slight preview this morning of a few of the things—all hand made—which are biding their time until Festival day.

Take a good look at that hand-hooked rug in the daisy pattern—Maybe you'll be lucky enough to win it. If you take a good look you will find a variety of Christmas ornaments as well as other things that will make Christmas shopping much easier.

S. Thomas Kruse.

Presently holding the spotlight at the Kruse home is a brand new family member, Master Kevin Samuel Kruse, who made his world debut on Tuesday, Sept. 14. We understand that, upon arrival, the young man weighed in at seven pounds, one and one-half ounces.

Anxiously waiting to welcome their new brother home on Friday were Kevin's sisters, Suzanne, 6, and Beth, who is 4. Also included on the newcomer's list of admirers are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kruse, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Owens, all of whom make their homes in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Incidentally, Mrs. Kruse tells us that her parents arrived in Lincoln for a week-long visit on Sunday; and, of course, their top priority will be getting acquainted with their new grandson!

High School Girls To Be Briefed

A guest is arriving in Lincoln today—a guest, we might add who will have few idle moments on her hands. She is Miss Anne Simpson, and she comes to Lincoln as a representative from Cotter College, Nevada, Mo. Not only will Miss Simpson be talking to high school girls who already are thinking about college, but the young lady from Nevada will be meeting with groups of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, a philanthropic organization which has a membership of slightly over 176,000 women throughout the country.

All consultations with the high school girls will be held at the Villager Motel, and the meetings with the young ladies who are looking forward to college begins with Northeast at 2:15 o'clock today. Miss Simpson will meet with interested girls from Pius X High School at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and at 10 o'clock on the same morning she will be talking to the girls from Southeast High School. Later in the day—at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Simpson will meet with the girls from East High School.

Last, but by no means least, are those college-bound girls from Lincoln High School who will meet with Miss Simpson at 1:30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon.

And by the way, Miss Simpson will have a coke party between 3:45 o'clock and 5:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon for all high school girls who want to learn about Cotter College.

Miss Simpson is herself a graduate of Cotter, which as you know, is a two-year college, and received her college degree from the University of Wyoming where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is a member of Chapter O.P.E.O., in Colorado.

If you'll remember, two weekends ago we mentioned the fact that, after attending the game, football fans, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Murray, celebrated the Husker victory with a family buffet supper at their home. Last weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Murray cheered their favorite team on "in absentia" due to the fact that they did a bit of traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray and children, Tracey and Kevin, left Saturday morning for Hastings where they were guests at the home of Mr. Murray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray.

Perhaps we should mention the reason for the Murrays' trip. It seems that on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray observed their 41st wedding anniversary; and in celebration of the occasion, they were the guests of honor at a family gathering. Also attending the festivities—which were highlighted by a very special anniversary dinner at the Murray home—were the honorees' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gesch and children, Angela, Tim, Karen and Sonja, also of Hastings.

Welcoming visitors into their home during the weekend were Skyline Terrace residents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Jensen and sons, Duane and Dennis. On the receiving end of the Jensens' hospitality were Mr. Jensen's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jensen and children, Elizabeth, Craig and Terry, of Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Jensen and family returned home Sunday evening.

A birthday celebration was on Friday evening's agenda for Mr. and Mrs. Albert Washington. Observing her birthday at a festive get-together was Mrs. Washington; and the guest list for the evening of fun, which took place at the Washington home, included the names of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Shearer and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Osborne.

Nixon Is Urged To Reverse Jump In Gas Prices

The New York Times

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire urged President Nixon Monday to reverse a significant increase in gasoline prices established by the oil industry just before the administration's price freeze was imposed.

"This price increase in the face of the wage-price freeze is clearly inflationary," the Wisconsin Democrat said in a statement. "President Nixon ought to take immediate action to roll it back."

The size of the advance depends on the time over which prices are measured, but the senator, who is chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, suggested that it amounted to at least 2.3 cents a gallon or a cost to consumers of nearly $2.2 billion a year.

The increase did not occur after the freeze went into effect on Aug. 15. Since that time, an aid to the senator acknowledged, gasoline prices have in fact declined by about two-tenths of a cent a gallon.

A freeze violation thus does not appear to be at issue. A spokesman for the Cost of Living Council, which administers the program, said he knew of no investigation of the industry in connection with the freeze.

Proxmire contended that the price increase came as a result of a Nixon administration decision disclosed a few weeks before the freeze, involving a highly complex aspect of the foreign oil import quotas.

On July 20, a "high administration official" informed "several oil reporters" that allocations of the foreign oil that are not used during 1971 could not be carried over into 1972 or later.

The effect of this, the senators said, was to drive down the value of the allocations, also called "tickets."

This hurt to a disproportionate extent the smaller, "independent" oil companies, he said.

The "tickets" cannot be sold under the law. The "independents," who generally do not use the imported oil, exchange the "tickets" with the major companies, who do use imported oil, and get domestic oil in return.

The senator said the smaller companies bring competition to the market and asserted "it is no coincidence" that when the value of their import allocations dropped the price of gasoline went up.

Competition Forced

The major companies only rarely get the retail price they have set "because the independent refiners and dealers force them to compete by lowering their prices," Proxmire said.

mire asserted in his statement.

The typical discount from the "target price" set by the big companies is 2.3 cents a gallon or about 10%, he went on. But the major firms no longer discount because the decision on import "tickets" has given them a "throttle hold," he said.

"The major oil companies are setting their target prices and keeping them there," the senator, long bitter opponent of the import quotas, said. "The cost to the consumer is enormous."

Proxmire said he had figures showing that the average retail price of a gallon of gasoline had gone up 2.37 cents between Aug. 13, 1970, and the same day this year.

A member of the senator's staff also reported that prices increased from 33.08 cents a gallon on July 20, when the action on quota allocations was

Ending Discrimination Not Always 'Comfortable'

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP) —

Breaking down racial inequality is going to require means that aren't always comfortable, Sen. Edmund S.

Muskie, D-Maine, said Monday

in discussing busing to achieve school desegregation.

Muskie, an undeclared candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, was in Chattanooga for a rally and speech after a stop in Columbia, S.C., where he said

regionalism should not determine who succeeds

Associate Justice Hugo L.

Black on the Supreme Court.

In Chattanooga, Muskie also discussed his statement in California about the chances for election of a national ticket with a Negro as vice presidential candidate.

"In the first place, what I said was an opinion, not a decision. In my judgment, I said the American people were not yet ready to support such a ticket."

No Way of Predicting

Asked what he thought of the possibility of blacks forming a third force in national politics,

Muskie said he had no way of predicting whether this would happen, but said "it is a way to bring grievances to the attention of the country."

I hope blacks will find remedies for fighting grievances in the Democratic Party."

Bringing his unannounced presidential campaign to the Deep South, Muskie said in Columbia that Black was "a man of enormous influence."

"Any president ought to be willing to go to any region of the country to find representation for the court," Muskie told a brief airpor news conference in Columbia, his third of four stops in four Southern states.

Political, Social Philosophy

"I don't think the region has anything to do with picking a nominee," he added. "I think that the qualifications and the political or social philosophy that the President thinks relevant to the times are to enter into the choice."

The nomination of justices to the Supreme Court is a sore spot in the South, especially in South Carolina, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's home state. Haynsworth's nomination to the court was rejected two years ago by the Senate.

Muskie is the first of two possible Democratic presidential contenders scheduled to visit this state during the week.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Washington, is to speak in Charleston and Greenville on Wednesday.

Muskie met privately with Democratic Gov. John West before attending a brief reception given by state party leaders. About 200 persons attended the reception, including former Gov. Robert E. McNair, mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate.

Industry sources contend that the prices were subject to seasonal fluctuations. The American Petroleum Institute, a trade association, that says it must avoid discussing pricing, declined comment on the Proxmire speech.

The major oil companies are setting their target prices and keeping them there," the senator, long a bitter opponent of the import quotas, said. "The cost to the consumer is increased."

He said the President could "roll it back" by making the 1971 allocations good for the next two years, by increasing the allocations to "independent" companies, and by permitting the allocations to be sold outright.

Beatrice Council Okays Changes In Speed Limits

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice — Traffic surveys by the State Department of Roads have resulted in reduced speed limits for both north and south Sixth St., which is also U.S. 77.

The city council suspended the rules and approved the changes on three quick ordinance readings Monday night. The limits were set as recommended by the state.

On south sixth, the present speed zone of 40 mph was extended to an overpass near the city limits. On north Sixth, where a street improvement project was just completed, the 35 and 40 mph zones were lengthened and a speed of 50 was imposed to 500 feet north of the Holiday House motel.

Mayor Bob Sargent said he feels the 50 mph rate is excessive because of traffic congestion. Police Chief Merl Hesser said, however, that the rates "sound about right."

City Attorney Earl Ahlschwede said in his opinion "we have a choice of either passing this ordinance or having a speed limit of 65."

On another traffic matter, the council reaffirmed its recent decision to remove parking on the west side of Sixth between Grant and Lincoln. Hesser said the step "has helped tremendously" and would request further parking bans.

The council also:

—referred to license and contracts committee $4,429 bid of Penner Insurance Agency, only one received, on automobile fleet insurance.

—referred to license and contracts committee bid of different types, both from Cigno-Weston Insurance Co. for Workmen's Compensation Insurance.

—heard report from L. W. Hoffman regarding completion plans for auditorium air conditioning.

—passed an 4-2 vote ordinance annexing three properties on north US 77.

—tabled until next meeting ordinance proposing annexation of several properties on east Lincoln.

—passed ordinance officially setting city levy for 1971-72 at 25.51 mills.

—passed ordinance decimating and operating city hall.

—authorized board of public works to advertise for bids on two salt and gravel spreaders.

—voted to join several other cities in filing a suit with Supreme Court opposing setting of government employee wages by Court of Industrial Relations.

According to Murphy, high costs of education deter some persons from going into medicine.

"The best way for a smaller rural community to guarantee that it will have a doctor is to pick a man from the rural area, who is more likely to want to go back there," he said.

83 Report For District Court Jury

Eighty-three Lancaster County residents reported Monday for the first two-week jury session of the fall term in Lancaster District Court.

According to Presiding Judge William Hastings, an extra two-week jury term has been called and the dates of other scheduled terms changed to handle the caseload.

The next two-week term will begin Oct. 11 instead of Oct. 25 as originally scheduled with the following two sessions beginning Nov. 1 and Nov. 29 and each running two weeks.

He said Judge Howard Kanouff of Wahoo will be filling in for the session beginning Oct. 11 since it is uncertain how long Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele will be recuperating from recent surgery.

Mrs. Mario DeSacasa and Virginia Dent, right, talk with Julie about the affair that will be held Sept. 27 in Washington. Mrs. DeSacasa is the daughter of the dean of the Washington diplomatic corps and Virginia is the daughter of the President's special counsel.

Senator Stafford To Seek Election

Montpelier, Vt. (UPI) — Robert W. Stafford, named last week as interim senator to fill the vacancy created by the death of Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said Monday he would seek election to complete the last five years of Prouty's term.

Stafford, 56, who has served six terms in the U.S. House, was named last Thursday by Gov. Deane C. Davis and is expected to run unopposed in the special primary Nov. 16 and the Jan. 7 special election.

Fighter Crashes

The Hague (UPI) — A Dutch air force starfighter crashed Monday north of the island of Texel off the Dutch coast, but the pilot parachuted to safety, the Air Force Information Service said.

83 Report For District Court Jury

Eighty-three Lancaster County residents reported Monday for the first two-week jury session of the fall term in Lancaster District Court.

According to Presiding Judge William Hastings, an extra two-week jury term has been called and the dates of other scheduled terms changed to handle the caseload.

The next two-week term will begin Oct. 11 instead of Oct. 25, as originally scheduled with the following two sessions beginning Nov. 1 and Nov. 29 and each running two weeks.

He said Judge Howard Kanouff of Wahoo will be filling in for the session beginning Oct. 11 since it is uncertain how long Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheels will be recuperating from recent surgery.

The jurors serving the current two-week session and their addresses are:

Proposed Zoning Changes Opposed At Council Session

By TOM EKVALL

Star Staff Writer

Zoning changes occupied most of the City Council's time Monday with four of the seven council members present.

Drawing opposition from neighborhood area residents were proposals for a shopping center on property at 40th and Normal, and zoning for apartments at 20th and Euclid and a site west of 8th and north of C Sts.

On the shopping center, which would require a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to G Local Business, David Tews, an attorney for the applicant, argued that the site is not a desirable location for single family homes.

Tews said the 9½ acre tract is located at the corner of a busy intersection with Antelope Creek bordering the southern boundary.

He argued that a shopping center would be the highest and best use of the land. The shopping center would have a common enclosed mall so that shopper could go from one store to another without going outside.

Tews also said that he would seek a rezoning back to single family use if in 18 months the shopping center should fail to materialize.

George Holmgren appeared in opposition and presented the council with a petition signed by 96 persons.

Opponents said a shopping center would make the traffic congestion at the intersection worse and argued that there is no compelling reason to change the zone.

A parade of residents in the 20th and Euclid vicinity also appeared to oppose a rezoning of land adjacent to the Milder Manor Nursing Home from B Two Family to D Multiple Dwelling.

The opponents said the parking situation is bad there and that traffic conditions are intolerable as 20th is the only through street from A to South between 17th and 27th Sts.

Robert Guenzel, an attorney representing the applicant, L. H. Feerhusen, argued that the rezoning is needed to economically develop the property. Guenzel said 44 units could be constructed on the property under the proposed zoning as compared to approximately 20 under B Two Family zoning.

Rents would be too high if developed under the present zoning, he argued.

Petitions signed by 64 persons were presented in opposition.

The third zoning proposal to draw opposition was a proposal by Paul Stoehr to build a fourplex on property in the 8th and C vicinity. Stoehr sought change from B Two Family to D Multiple.

The planning department and City-County Planning Commission had recommended denial of all three zoning applications. The council will take action next Monday on the changes of zone.

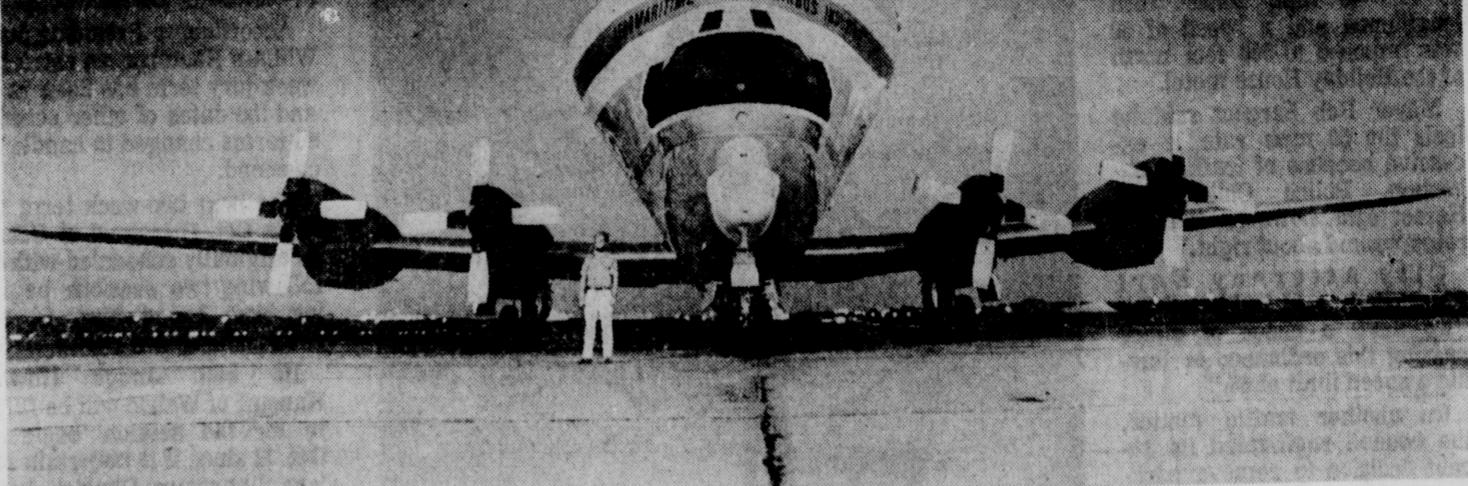

N-Triple-C Files Microwave Plan With The FCC

Nebraska Consolidated Communications Corp. (N-Triple-C) Friday announced the filing with the Federal Communications Commission of a $4 million microwave system designed to carry national television programming in Texas. It will be part of a proposed larger system.

The entire system, FCC approved in May, will cost about $20 million. This filing is the first of a series and seeks approval of specifics such as tower locations and frequencies to be used.

The Lincoln based firm applied for a 14-state, 3,550 mile microwave system in April, 1970. On June 6, 1971, the FCC authorized open entry into the common carrier field.

Executive Vice President of N-Triple-C, Clifford E. Thompson said, "construction permits for this large system could be issued by the Commission (FCC) yet this year."

SUPER GUPPIE PAYS VISIT TO LINCOLN AIRPORT

The Lincoln Municipal Airport hosted a giant guest Monday. This Super Guppy 201 built by Aero Space Lines of Santa Barbara, Calif., stopped for the night enroute to Paris, France. The plane which has been purchased by the French Airbus Industry will be used to transport Airbus components in Europe. The craft is 25 feet high, from the floor to the ceiling and in terms of usable cargo space is the largest airplane in the world. It is 52 feet high from the ground to the top, has a wingspan of 137 feet and is 147 feet long from nose to tail. The aircraft, with the official designation of B-377SGT201, was originally a combination of a Boeing 377 and a KC97. Karl Schneider, a technical representative of Aero Space Lines, said he will be assisting with the plane for two years in Paris. (Star Photo.)

Council May Consider Park Naming Resolution

The City Council is expected to consider Monday a resolution to formally name the new northeast park as the J. Phillip Mahoney Park.

Former city councilman Carroll Thompson, who had been a prime mover for the park while on the council, urged that the park be named now.

Thompson said in August of 1970, the city had agreed in an agreement with Mahoney to "forthwith" develop the property and name the park after him in exchange for land donated for the site of the new Victor Anderson Library at Touzalin and Fremont.

Nothing has happened since then to name the park, he said, which he termed as "shabby treatment."

WHO Claims Smallpox Shots Could Be Ended

Geneva (UPI) — The World Health Organization (WHO) said Monday it is now safe for advanced countries to abolish mandatory smallpox vaccination.

WHO officials said they agreed with Britain's decision to dispense with routine vaccination announced in July and believe the United States will take similar action soon.

Countries with modern health systems face a greater risk from vaccination than from smallpox itself, the officials said.

There have been no cases in the United States for 22 years, although some six people die annually through vaccinations, they said.

For lesser-developed countries to abolish vaccinations would, however, be asking for trouble, the officials said.

Kennedy, Lindsay Nomination Battle May Highlight National Convention

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

If Democratic presidential candidates knock each other out of contention in the primaries, the national convention could produce a showdown battle between Edward Kennedy and John Lindsay for the nomination.

That is the long range guess of Matt Troy, a member of the New York City Council, Democratic chairman in the borough of Queens and chairman of Sen. George McGovern's national urban affairs committee.

But Troy thinks the early primaries hold some "pleasant surprises" for supporters of McGovern.

Best Organization

After a tour of 16 states in the last 23 days, Troy told newsmen in Lincoln, he is convinced that McGovern has "the best (campaign) organization in every state" he has visited.

In Nebraska, he said, the South Dakota senator "definitely has the edge on organizational strength at this time."

The only other contender who appears to be organizing the state as seriously as McGovern is Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, he said.

Troy met earlier in the day with Gov. J. James Exon, but their conversation centered mostly on the violence at Attica and the need for prison reform, he said.

Heads Committee

Troy is chairman of New York City's committee on prison reform.

RICHARD J. DALEY

Daley Denies Wife Behind 'Boss' Ban

Chicago (UPI) — Mayor Richard J. Daley denied Monday that it was his wife who pressured a supermarket chain into removing the book "Boss—Richard J. Daley of Chicago" from its shelves.

But he conceded at a news conference that Mrs. Eleanor Daley had something to do with the action by the National Tea Co. stores.

"It was some of the neighbors and good friends of ours" who actually made the protests, Daley said.

He said his wife had told friends that the book, by Chicago Daily News columnist Mike Royko, was "trash and hogwash."

"She's entitled to say it, as he (Royko) entitled to write it," Daley said.

The national chain last week ordered paperback copies of Royko's critical biography of Daley removed from its stores.

A spokesman aid customers' protests prompted the move.

Royko then reported in his column that National had really bowed to the angry protest of Mrs. Daley.

He said the mayor's wife had visited a National store in her Chicago neighborhood, seen the book on display, and promptly turned every copy around so the title would not show. She then demanded of the store manager that he get rid of the books, Royko wrote. The store manager later confirmed that something like that did happen.

National later ordered the books restored to its Chicago stores, explaining it had received more requests for the book than it had complaints.

And he does seriously regret the action he took," Troy said.

Kennedy, Lindsay Nomination Battle May Highlight National Convention

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

If Democratic presidential candidates knock each other out of contention in the primaries, the national convention could produce a showdown battle between Edward Kennedy and John Lindsay for the nomination.

That is the long range guess of Matt Troy, a member of the New York City Council, Democratic chairman in the borough of Queens and chairman of Sen. George McGovern's national urban affairs committee.

But Troy thinks the early primaries hold some "pleasant surprises" for supporters of McGovern.

Best Organization

After a tour of 16 states in the last 23 days, Troy told newsmen in Lincoln, he is convinced that McGovern has "the best (campaign) organization in every state" he has visited.

In Nebraska, he said, the South Dakota senator "definitely has the edge on organizational strength at this time."

The only other contender who appears to be organizing the state as seriously as McGovern is Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, he said.

Troy met earlier in the day with Gov. J. James Exon, but their conversation centered mostly on the violence at Attica and the need for prison reform, he said.

Heads Committee

Troy is chairman of New York City's committee on prison reform.

Although he recognizes Exon's "close friendship" with Bayh, Troy said, "we have a shot at him."

Exon has announced his intention to seek election as an uncommitted delegate to the national convention pledged to support the winner of Nebraska's primary election.

Troy said he tries to impress governors "the advantages to the states that get behind the winning candidate," and do so early.

I'm Better Up Front

"The train is about ready to leave the station," he said. And when you travel a campaign train, he suggested, "it's better to be in front than in the caboose."

Troy said he thinks New York Mayor John Lindsay "probably will be a candidate" for the presidential nomination, but he hopes the mayor will wait until after the early primaries to make his decision.

Lindsay "would hurt McGovern pretty severely" if he entered the same primaries, Troy said.

If McGovern's campaign "doesn't get off the ground" during the early primaries in New Hampshire, Florida and Wisconsin, Troy said, he thinks the senator would remove himself from the race.

Expects No Change

As for Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy, Troy said he expects no change in his disavowal of candidacy, at least through the primaries. "I think we'll inherit a lot of his strength," he said.

Troy said he hears Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey's name mentioned most often as a candidate in the Midwest.

"But I think Hubert Humphrey's time has come and gone," he said. "He was a tremendous statesman ... but he cannot appeal to the young."

Prefers To Wait

Troy said he would "prefer to wait" for a commission investigation of the Attica riot before passing judgment on Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's decision to storm the prison with state troopers.

But, he said, the governor "received a lot of misinformation" about conditions at the prison at the time he acted.

"And he does seriously regret the action he took," Troy said.

In 1962, Mr. Smith as the recipient of the Cyrus McCormick gold medal for outstanding achievement in agricultural engineering. In 1963 he received an award of merit from the Nebraska chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta.

Notre Dame Eyes Huskers

John Stewart Elliott, formerly of Beatrice and now living in Ojai, Calif., ships a clipping from the Seattle Times quoting Notre Dame defense back Mike Crotty as saying the Irish footballers are eyeing Nebraska's footballers.

"Those Nebraska folks gave us a hard time about the No. 1 business," Crotty told a Seattle scribe, "And we would purr love to meet them in the Orange Bowl and settle it."

COMMENT — Perhaps the person Mike has to convince is Mr. Parseghian. He apparently has forgotten that his teammates voted to go to Miami a year ago where they could have played the Huskers, but Ara voted to go back to Dallas.

One Who's Different

Mrs. Kenneth Kimmel of Lincoln would like to have one thing cleared up — the misconception created by sports writers, sportscasters and cartoonists depicting the female of the family as "the poor little woman when football season starts."

"That may be true in some sections of the country," she declares, "but I'm sure here in 'Football Country' that is not the case. In fact, I probably watch more football, college and pro, than my husband."

"Also with a little planning, the 'poor little woman' can join her husband while he is watching games on television. The last time Nebraska had a home game on Thanksgiving, we went to the game, and I had a piping hot Thanksgiving dinner for 20 people, served at three different intervals because of work commitments, and everyone had turkey and all the trimmings."

"So there is no reason any woman cannot join her husband and family in seeing and watching the games."

Dear Mrs. Kimmel — We know a number of men, who might like to be married to you, at least during the football season.

Out-Of-State Hunter Disgruntled

Walter W. Kerswill of Pheonix claims he will never again be induced to come to Nebraska during the hunting season despite continuing to receive invitations from Dick Schaffer of the Nebraska Game Commission's Information Department.

The Arizona hunter claims that after a number of years of receiving invitations to come and hunt pheasants in Nebraska, last year he decided to do that and ran into the following experiences:

"Following a 2-day drive, with all my hunting equipment, etc., I arrived in the town of Benkelman and purchased my out-of-state license ($25, plus $1, for a bird stamp) And then off for some wonderful hunting: (I thought).

"Following the directions that one must secure permission to hunt on a farmer's land, I dutifully complied . . . and would you believe it when I tell you that with 2 exceptions, I spent the next five days being denied hunting privileges.

"Here are some of the replies I received when I respectfully and politely asked for permission to hunt on land.

1. "No, we don't want outsiders hunting here."

2. "Sorry, we only let our family hunt on our land."

3. "No sir . . . those clowns in the Game Department should quit asking people to come up here to hunt."

4. "Nope, we had a bad hail storm last June (1970) and there aren't any birds left."

"I then proceeded to drive eastward and found the same replies. Then I turned northward towards North Platte, and while I did not continue completely to that city, still found the same turn-downs."

"Needless to say, after several days this proved pretty discouraging . . . and all the enthusiasm waned. Still, I didn't give up trying until the fifth day . . . and then started back to Phoenix."

"Mr. Schaffer, your propaganda and the information simply doesn't agree with the feelings of your residents. You are either out of touch with them for the most part . . . or the greater portion of Southwestern Nebraska is unique in their reflections for out-of-state hunters."

"No, Mr. Schaffer, I won't plan to visit Nebraska this year . . . or during later years, for obvious reasons."

"And, may I respectfully suggest that you consider revising your information to give out-of-state hunters more accurate information?"

Questioning Aunt Priscilla

Six weeks after the close of the Lincoln horse racing season, a Des Moines reader-bettor levels a blast at our Aunt Priscilla.

"It is because of (censored) like you that hundreds of people lose thousands of dollars by following your pick of horses at a race track," the complainant writes. "For seven straight days, you didn't have a winner, so why doesn't (a censored again) like you keep your big mouth shut."

"People will save money if you do. One good thing, you will keep the (censored) from flowing until next year, now."

Comment — Aunt Priscilla points out that anyone betting her bets daily would have wound up with a profit of $36 on her $100 investment. "And that's better interest than you can get at a bank," she points out.

Class B

1—Blair (2-0)	6—Minden (2-0)
2—Holdrege (2-0)	7—Fairbury (2-0)
3—Omaha Cathedral (2-0)	8—Chadron (2-0)
4—Cozad (2-0)	9—Auburn (2-0)
5—Columbus Lakeview (2-0)	10—Wahoo (2-0)

Comment — A total of 22 Class B teams remain unbeaten. In addition, Lexington (1-1) and defending Class B champion Lincoln Plus X (0-1), may prove to be among the best before it's over. Kimball, Sidney, Bridgeport, Crete and Grand Island CC closely challenge the initial top ten choices.

Class C

1—Elkhorn (2-0)	6—Hastings St. Cecilia (2-0)
2—Grant (1-0)	7—Waymore Southern (2-0)
3—Gretna (2-0)	8—Bloomfield (2-0)
4—David City (2-0)	9—Valley (2-0)
5—Geneva (2-0)	10—North Loup-Scotia (2-0)

Comment — A total of 41 teams in Class C were under serious consideration for a spot on the initial top ten list. Milford, Fremont Bergan and Red Cloud were among the last to be eliminated. Gibbon, Loup City, Louisville, Nelson, Pawnee City and Sand Creek head another list of close challengers.

Giants Face Road Dates With 1½-Game Lead

. . . SAN FRANCISCO TRAVELS TO HOUSTON, DODGERS AT CINCINNATI

Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1971 The Lincoln Star 15

By United Press International

The San Francisco Giants have played their last game at Candlestick Park this season — unless they hold on to win the National League's Western Division race.

The Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers, just 1½ games apart in the West, had a travel day Monday as they started road trips and prepared to resume action Tuesday night.

For the Giants, it's a road trip that won't end until the season is over. The Giants have nine games left and all nine are on the road.

Los Angeles, which gained a half game on the Giants Sunday when it swept a doubleheader from Atlanta, has eight games remaining and five are on the road.

In Tuesday night's action, Los Angeles will send Claude Osteen against Cincinnati at Riverfront Stadium while San Francisco will pitch John Cumberland against Houston in the Astrodome.

San Francisco is playing a three-game series at the Astrodome and manager Charlie Fox will follow Cumberland with his two aces, Juan Marichal on Wednesday night and Gaylord Perry on Thursday night.

Los Angeles is only playing two games at Cincinnati and will pitch Bill Singer on Wednesday night.

and will pitch Bill Singe on Wednesday night.

On Friday night, San Francisco will follow Los Angeles into Cincinnati while the Dodgers switch to Atlanta. Both clubs will play three games.

Both teams will then have next Monday night off and the pennant race will wind up next Tuesday-Wednesday-Thursday nights. Los Angeles will be home against Houston while San Francisco will be at San Diego.

If past records mean anything, the Dodgers have an edge in playing Cincinnati since they have an 11-5 season edge on the Reds. However, the Dodgers trail Atlanta 6-0 on the season and only have an 8-7 edge on Houston.

San Francisco has an 11-4 season edge on San Diego and that could be important since the Giants close the season there although the Padres have been dangerous in the last month of the season when playing the contenders.

Atlanta was still given an outside shot until Sunday when the two losses to Los Angeles knocked the Braves out of contention.

In the Eastern Division, Pittsburgh has an 8½ game lead over St. Louis and is simply waiting to open the championship. The Pirates can do it in style Tuesday night when they play at Pittsburgh.

In the American League, Oakland has already clinched the Western Division race and Baltimore has a six-game lead in the Eastern Division.

The odd thing about Baltimore's season is that the Orioles have had four games rained out — two against Washington and one each against Kansas City and Oakland — that may never be played if the Orioles can keep far enough ahead of Detroit to clinch the flag without those games.

But Detroit manager Billy Martin hopes to keep winning to force the American League to reschedule those games. Travel difficulties have forced the cancellation of the games and it didn't seem to make any difference until Detroit won three of four from Baltimore over the weekend to remain alive.

Baltimore opened a three-game set at New York Monday night while Detroit was idle and opens a series at Boston Tuesday night.

FUMBLE CAUSES LION LOSS

Devaney Pleased, But Still Uncertain

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Being 2-0 at this point in the season pleases him, Nebraska head football coach Bob Devaney admitted Monday, but added that there's no room for standing still.

"All of us have got to be very happy when we come up with a win," he told the weekly NU Extra Point Club Luncheon, "But we also know that it's very difficult to stay on the same plane."

"You either improve or you drop back. We want to improve. And I believe we can be a good football team, but we haven't proven ourselves as yet."

Then in jest, he added, "We're still pointing very hard toward that Dec. 4 date with Hawaii."

The Husker coach also revealed he had passed along a couple of words of wisdom to both his offensive and defensive units.

"Our defense hustles all the time and we're not disappointed in them," he said, "But we've told them we think they are capable of doing better."

"And we've told our offense that they must cash in on a better percentage of scoring opportunities."

Devaney's slight displeasure with the defense was their letting Minnesota control the ball on them during one drive.

"But where the statistics were evened up was in the late stages and they weren't as close as they appeared to be in print."

His reference to the need for cashing in on a higher percentage of scoring opportunities was to the times last year and at times played very badly.

"When any of those southern teams come north, they fight that war again that was fought more than 100 years ago and two years ago, we had a heckuva time with Texas A&M before winning 14-0."

"They beat LSU a year ago, then got beat badly by Ohio State," he explained, "But they came back the next week and played a tremendous game against Michigan, a team that was about as good as Ohio State."

"When any of those southern teams come north, they fight that war again that was fought more than 100 years ago and two years ago, we had a heckuva time with Texas A&M before winning 14-0."

" Fans Need Drinking Warning
Topeka, Kan.—Atty. Gen. Vern Miller said today he had not received a report on drinking at the Kansas-Baylor football game Saturday in Lawrence, but an assistant attorney general who went to the game said he didn't observe anyone drinking liquor at the game or near the stadium.

Miller pledged to "keep an eye" on the state's football stadiums at future games to continue a crackdown he has ordered on flagrant displays of liquor bottles on state property

Stocks Drift Lower In Lethargic Mart

New York (P) — Still gripped by the lethargy that has characterized recent sessions, the stock market drifted downward in very slow trading Monday.

Analysts said caution appeared to be the watchword among many investors who, they said, were awaiting specific details of the second phase of President Nixon's program to curb inflation before reentering the market.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was 9.55 million shares, the lightest trading since last Aug. 10. Turnover last Friday was 11.04 million shares. Brokers attributed the low volume Monday partly to investors who were absent in observance of the Jewish holiday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, after moving within a narrow range for the entire session, closed off 3.07 points at 905.15. Of the 160 issues traded on the Big Board, 841 declined, and 485 advanced. New yearly highs were reached by 25 issues and lows by 32.

RA, up 2% at 35 on a volume of 325,000 shares was the most-active Big Board issue. The company announced Friday it would discontinue most of its computer production. Many investors thought the move would help the long-term prospects of the company, analysts said.

Panhandle School Problems Heard By Interim Study Unit

Bridgeport (P) — Members of the Legislative Council Interim Committee on State Aid to Education heard a variety of problems from Panhandle schools at a public hearing here Monday.

Problems ranging from extra aid for the education of minority groups in Scottsbluff to support for the education students coming from a nontaxable school district in Sidney were discussed.

Sidney Supt. Russ Pedersen asked for the support of 35 to 40 students who are coming into the system from District No. 166, the former Sioux Ordnance Depot which now is state property, housing the Western Nebraska Technical College.

Normal emergency impact funding for these students expires at the end of this year, Pedersen said, and something will have to be done to ease the burden.

The students are children of WNTC staff members.

Scottsbluff School Board representative Allen Arringdale asked that the legislature consider the minority problems, which the Scottsbluff and Omaha schools have in common.

The language barrier was noted as a trouble spot for the Scottsbluff District, since many of the children are of Mexican National parentage.

Lodgepole Supt. Gene Thompson said the formula established by the Foundation and Equalization Act of 1967 creates specific problems for small school districts like his, since a negative equalization amount is the end result of figuring with the formula.

He added that he felt that less than a fair share of the citizen's tax dollar was being returned through the school, and said he would like to see more funding for use in special programs and vocational education.

John Corvin, representing the Alliance schools, told the committee that Alliance public schools were operating on a mill levy of 79.51 at a cost of $850 per pupil. He said he felt the state was "taxing in an area where we have no reasonable method of paying." He asked for a complete reorganization of the tax structure in the state.

Neal Daniels, representing the Chadron Schools presented a similar problem to the group, saying the districts operates on a levy of 71.90 mills.

Daniels cited a trend which is "making us nervous" in that valuation is up but state aid is dropping.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, a committee member, asked the group to tell him what's the matter with foundation aid. Burbach asked, "Is there any instance in which the cost of educating a child should be based on anything but the cost?"

Gering Supt. Hale Geister suggested a formula whereby state aid would be appropriated on the basis of classroom units, with the legislature determining what constitutes a unit, and how much should be allocated.

The state would make up the difference, if any, between this amount and the amount that could be raised by property tax.

U.S. District Judge William M. Byrne Jr., made a conditional ruling Monday morning prohibiting the government from examining the belongings.

Pentagon Claims Drug Drive Pays Off

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon's chief medical officer said Monday efforts to educate, identify and treat drug users are beginning to pay off with fewer GIs turning to heroin in Vietnam.

Dr. Richard S. Wilbur said GIs are now beginning to turn in drug pushers. Although they are not pointing the finger at fellow GIs, he said, they are for the first time pointing out foreign nationals, mostly South Vietnamese, who sell heroin to the troops for as little as $2.00 a bag.

"I think a certain amount of peer pressure" is beginning to take its effect, Wilbur said. He said also the threat of identification through the urine testing program, as well as drug education programs now underway at bases both in the United States and Vietnam, is getting the message across.

Wilbur cited no statistics but claimed that evidence is beginning to show the percentage of men using heroin in Vietnam is less than it was in June when the urine test program began.

Some men have quit voluntarily, but their numbers will never be known, he said.

Although heroin use will never be totally eliminated, efforts to control it will help, he said. "I don't think we can get heroin out of Vietnam anymore than the Volstead Act got booze out of the United States."

The Volstead Act banned the sale and manufacture of beer and whiskey during the 1920s

Women Hired

Ocean City, Md. (AP) — Two dozen pretty young women have been hired to interview vacationers in an effort to ease the city's overburdened medical facilities.

There are only five physicians here among a summer-time population of 100,000.

Noise Is Problem

Auckland, New Zealand (AP) — The National Audiology Center here has a noise problem.

Street traffic made it difficult to carry out accurate hearing tests and the center is to be sound-proofed.

until it was repealed in 1933.

Wilbur described alcohol as the leading cause of disability among the troops since George Washington's time, and said efforts to control it will go hand in hand with the drug abuse program. Otherwise, credibility with the younger men will be lost, he said.

Wilbur said urine tests have indicated about 5.5% of the men leaving Vietnam use heroin, but further tests show only 3.7% are confirmed users. Of those, only 10% mainline or inject the drug directly into their bloodstream while the remainder either smoke or snort it, he said.

He described a typical heroin user in Vietnam as being between the ages of 18 and 23, a low-ranking enlisted man who is single and likely to come from a broken home. They are "insecure, immature and incredibly naive," he said.

Baltimore (AP) — Maj. William A. Harris became the highest-ranking Negro in the history of the Baltimore Police Department when he was promoted to lieutenant colonel and given charge of the Traffic Division.

Barium Cloud Lights Up Sky

Washington (UPI) — A four-stage Scout rocket roared to an altitude of 20,000 miles Monday night and then ejected a payload of barium gas, creating a glowing white cloud visible throughout the western hemisphere.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration launched the rocket at 6:31 p.m. CDT from its facility at Wallops Island, Va. At 10:05 p.m. CDT, the barium was released on schedule over Central America and space agency officials said it could be seen for several seconds with the naked eye.

Witnesses said the demonstration was called to protest school examinations but later widened to a protest against ROTC-type military training and the unopposed candidacy of President Nguyen

Saigon Students Protest Election

Van Thieu in the Oct. 3 election.

It began in an orderly fashion inside the faculty of science compound but spilled into the street and students began burning their schoolbooks.

Police fired one volley of tear gas canisters to clear the street when some of the demonstrators tried to set fire to parked police motorcycles.

The students retreated inside the compound, burned an effigy of Thieu and sang anti-Thieu songs. Witnesses said police fired a second volley of tear gas and charged into the compound to disperse the demonstrators.

Jobless Hot Spots Will Be Cooled

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration earmarked $200 million Monday to help the nation's high unemployment areas hire the jobless in public-service occupations.

But the new money is set aside for a narrower purpose attacking joblessness in "pockets of high unemployment" across the country. Nationwide, the jobless rate is 6.1%.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said he is holding another $50 million in reserve to be used later.

Bass Released

Tyler, Tex. (AP) — An additional 22,000 striped bass have been released in Navarro Mills Reservoir near Corsicana, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The fingerlings were reared at the local fish hatchery after being hatched by the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries earlier this year.

WILD HICKORY TREES ARE FOUND ONLY IN NORTH AMERICA.

by Cal Alley

Since late 1969, the U.S. Justice Department has arrested 1,100 persons who tried to board aircraft while carrying concealed deadly weapons.

The major crop in Mississippi is rice.

The U.S. Coast Guard was established Aug. 4, 1790.

Former slave George Washington Carver developed more than 300 products from peanuts.

Wild hickory trees are found only in North America.

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a puzzle little game that will give you a message every day. It is a number puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Right.
